Republicans Consider Putting Unemployment Commission
Under Other Control.

BULLETIN

COLUMBUS — (U.P.)—Governor Davey asked Republican legislative leaders today for permission to address a joint session of the newly-installed house and senate tonight. Republican spokesmen immediately made arrangements for a meeting to accommodate the governor whose term expires Jan. 9.

COLUMBUS — While the Republican-controlled Ohio assembly was mapping a drive today to wrest control from the job-heavy unemployment compensation commission from the Democrats, Gov. Martin L. Davey made another Democratic appointment, the Republican's apparently without touch.

Mrs. Margaret Allan, Davey's welfare department director, announced the appointment of Mrs. Myrna Smith, the governor's executive secretary, as a member of the state parole board, at an annual salary of $6,000. Her term continues to August, 1942, and her appointment does not require confirmation by the senate.

Lawrence Wins Post.
It was failure to obtain senate confirmation that kept Davey from appointing Charles Leasure to the chairmanship of the unemployment compensation commission, though late Saturday night, he was able to obtain confirmation of the appointment of Senator Keith Lawrence of Cleveland, Democratic leader in the senate.

In commenting on Mrs. Smith's appointment, the governor anticipated some criticism but he said it will come "merely because of the anti-Davey mania" of the administration's critics.

"I am glad to see Mrs. Smith receive appointment as a member of the state parole board," Davey said.

"There will be some who will criticize her merely because of their anti-Davey mania."

CHAIRMAN AGAIN

Mitchell Re-elected Head of County Commissioners.

C. L. Mitchell, 126 Sherman avenue, today was re-named chairman of the board of Richland county commissioners at the annual reorganization meeting of the board.

Re-elected in November for his second four-year term, Mitchell, a Democrat, has been chairman of the board for the past two years. He began his second term as commissioner yesterday. Other members of the board are Ray Hout, R. D. 4, Mansfield, and Guy Stewart of Lucas, both Democrats.

The commissioners re-appointed P. S. Carroll of Mansfield as clerk of the board for the seventh consecutive year.

William Miller, Mansfield, was re-appointed county dog warden and Anton Moritz was named again as head custodian at the courthouse. Other custodians who were re-appointed by the commissioners were Frank Vidmer, Sam Jones and Mrs. Tracy Long.

It has 169 Republican members, as compared with 88 in the 75th, and many Democrats who are not New Dealers. Observers foresee trouble ahead for the New Deal.

BRUNNER NAMED BY PARK BOARD

Newly Elected Commissioners
Meet for First Time; Plan
Tour of System Jan. 10.

(Pictures on Page Seven)

Mansfield's new park board, composed of three non-salaried commissioners, was organized and ready to function today.

Meeting yesterday for the first time, in the office of Mayor Claude M. Hunter, the board, composed of Henry G. Brunner, Roy W. Vaughn and Robert S. Gibson, named Brunner president and Vaughn vice president. Mayor Hunter presided for the election.

With President Brunner in the chair, the board then proceeded to name G. Victor Sowers, clerk at the city sewage disposal plant, as acting secretary, a post which has no salary attached. It also gave Jacob Rahm, who has been park superintendent for the past year, a provisional reappointment.

The board plans to spend all of next Tuesday, Jan. 10, touring the city park system to check up on layouts and equipment and learning first hand what the city has in the way of park facilities and what it needs, Vaughn said today.

What the board learns on that tour is expected to provide a basis for park planning, he said. Tentative plans call for a board meeting following the tour, with monthly meetings likely thereafter.

Until council passes the 1939 appropriations ordinance, the board will not know how much money it will have for operating expenses. Last year's parks appropriation was $11,500, while the tentative appropriation for 1939 has been set at $13,000. That may be reduced in the final draft of the finance measure, however.

The commissioners re-appointed P. S. Carroll of Mansfield as clerk of the board for the seventh consecutive year.

William Miller, Mansfield, was re-appointed county dog warden and Anton Moritz was named again as head custodian at the courthouse. Other custodians who were re-appointed by the commissioners were Frank Vidmer, Sam Jones and Mrs. Tracy Long.

Autoist Dies In Last Accident of Old Year

John Thorne, 34, Succumbs Half Hour Before
Arrival of 1939; Three Suffer Minor Injuries In Week-end Crashes.

A prominent Mansfield man, fatally injured in an automobile collision last Friday became Richland county's 24th victim in the closing hour of 1938 as motorists entered the new year with only three minor mishaps on county highways.

Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon for John L. Thorne, 34, of 411 West Fifth street, who died in General hospital at 11:30 p. m. Saturday from a fractured skull, sustained in a collision at West Fourth street and Penn avenue with a car carrying seven girls.

Physicians said Thorne never regained consciousness from the time of the accident which occurred at 6:45 last Friday.

Buried Monday.
Services for Mr. Thorne were held at 3:30 p. m. yesterday at the Grace Episcopal church. Burial was in the Mansfield cemetery.

Besides his wife, Dorothy, whom he married last summer, he is survived by his mother, Mrs. Alfred Thorne and one sister, Mrs. Charles Tate of Cleveland.

Mr. Thorne was born in Mansfield Dec. 12, 1904 and attended Mansfield schools and Kenyon college.

He had been associated with Westinghouse company for the past 14 years and at the time of his death was foreman in the appliance department. He was a member of the Grace Episcopal church, the Hermit club, president of the Westinghouse Foremen's club, the Beta Theta Pi.

MURPHY TAKES CABINET POST

Roosevelt Asks Early Senate
Confirmation for New U. S.
Attorney General.

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — Former Gov. Frank Murphy of Michigan today began his duties as attorney general of the United States while President Roosevelt prepared to send his name to the senate for confirmation.

President Roosevelt was expected to ask early senate approval of his choice of the 45-year-old red-haired liberal as a member of his cabinet. Generally favorable comment with which both conservative and New Deal senators greeted Murphy's nomination indicated that he would face little opposition.

Little opposition also was expected to the confirmation of former Work Progress Administration Harry L. Hopkins as secretary of commerce. He was appointed and sworn in to his new post a week ago.

The general sentiment appeared to be that the president should have the right to choose his own cabinet.

(By Associated Press)

Murphy, named to succeed Attorney General Cummings, had been in politics in Michigan some 10 years before his name became known nationally.

His rise to prominence seems to date from the time he attracted the attention of Mr. Roosevelt when Roosevelt was governor of New York and Murphy was mayor of Detroit.

In the turbulent days of 1930-1933, Murphy was trying to whitewash Detroit's $400,000,000 debt. He

MAIL ROBBERIES GET $26,000 IN CLEVELAND

Cut Way Through Brick Wall of Postal Station in Daring Robbery.

OBTAIN CASH AND STAMPS
"Experts" Responsible, Police
Declare as They Find No
Clues or Prints.

(By United Press)

CLEVELAND — Cutting through a 15-inch brick wall of a large vault at Postal Station B, robbers obtained $26,000 in cash, stamps and registered mail, sometime during the holiday week-end.

Largest and most daring postal robbery in the history of Cleveland, the job was the work of a gang of "experts," police and postal inspectors said. It was believed the gang was in the building at least five or six hours.

Fall to Get Money Orders.
The robbers' efforts to obtain thousands of blank money orders, which easily could be filled out and cashed, were thwarted when they were unable to open a small safe hidden in the vault.

Ludwig Weglein, station superintendent, said it was possible that the loot might total $30,000.

Detectives and postal authorities were working on the theory that a member of the gang obtained employment at the station during the Christmas mailing rush.

The robbery was discovered at 5 a. m. today when Fred Olbrich, clerk in the registry department, reported for work and found scores of opened letters strewn on the floor. The station had been closed since 1:30 p. m. Saturday.

No Prints or Clues.
Absence of fingerprints indicated that the gang wore gloves. Not a clue was left that would indicate how many were involved, according to Detective Lieut. Herbert Murray.

Entrance to the one-story building was gained by prying half-inch steel bars which form a grill over a basement window.

Setting to work with sledge hammers, chisels and crowbars the gang cut a hole 18 inches square through the vault wall.

Court in Mt. Vernon Opens
Davey 'Shakedown' Case.

MT. VERNON — (U.P.) — Ivan R. Ault, state highway director, went on trial in common pleas court today on charge of soliciting campaign funds for Gov. Martin L. Davey in violation of civil service laws.

Ault was indicted in Ashland county in connection with his primary election campaign activities while working as division engineer for the highway department.

He was promoted to the directorship by Davey following the resignation of John J. Jaster, jr.

LIBERALISM FOES TO PUT CHECK ON 'COMMAND RULE'

Expect Roosevelt Message Wednesday

Expansion of Nation's Defense.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON — Both senate and house were formally called to order for the opening of the 76th congress a few seconds after noon today. Senator Charles McNary of Oregon was unanimously elected Republican leader of the senate at a party caucus earlier.

By GEORGE R. HOLMES

(International News Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON — A new congress, the 76th, replete with resurgent Republicans and dissident Democrats, convened today for a run of many months.

For the first time since 1932, the Republicans have a militant, fighting minority. By combining with the conservative Democrats who have no love for the New Deal—and there are a number of them—they may be able to checkmate the Roosevelt administration at many points.

The huge, cumbersome New Deal's honeymoon is ended. Henceforth, the administration is going to have to fight to attain its objectives, instead of simply commanding.

In the house, there are 169 Republicans instead of the 88 that made the futile minority of the 75th congress. There are 262 Democrats. In the senate, there are 23 Republicans instead of the 15 of last session. On the bare figures, the Democrats still dominate both houses, but the figures do not tell the whole story. In those Democratic majorities are many Democrats, mostly from the South, who have little time for, or sympathy with, the New Deal's experiments in the field of economic and social legislation.

Up to Barkley, Bayburn.
It will be up to the Democratic leadership, Senator Barkley of Kentucky, and Rep. Sam Rayburn of Texas, to hold the Democratic majority together. Behind them, as a backseat driver, sits Vice President John Nance Garner, who personally wields more influence in this congress than any other single individual. And the V. P. is no ardent New Dealer. Loyal to Mr. Roosevelt, the vice president still is a conservative Democrat of the old school, and, moreover, he has a following.

This important phase of the new defense strategy, which has been virtually overlooked in the excitement of the anticipated expansion of the army and navy air forces to 13,000 planes, was expected today to include construction of at least five giant key air bases.

All Weak Links Now.
The air bases, from which the expanded air force will operate, will be located in three far-flung areas which are now relatively

RELIEF: Reports U. S. Funds Diverted for Political Purposes

WASHINGTON — (By Associated Press)
The senate campaign expenditures committee charged today that relief funds in several states had been diverted for political purposes.

It made no specific criticism of Harry Hopkins, former WPA administrator who recently was named secretary of commerce, but it called for legislation to "make impossible further offenses of this character."

Concluding a long inquiry into the 1938 senatorial contests, the committee offered 16 suggestions for cleaning up elections. It cleared all the candidates personally, however, of a wide variety of accusations.

The committee report of more than 400 printed pages said many charges of political activity against the WPA had not been sustained, but it added:

"The committee believes that funds appropriated by the congress for the relief of those in need and distress have been in many instances diverted from these high purposes to political ends."

A majority of 22 complaints against the WPA administration in Kentucky, it said, had been sustained by committee agents. Hopkins previously had denied all except two.

The report included such recommendations as these:

Prohibition against political contributions by relief recipients and legislation forbidding relief

REDS: Blames Federal Labor Bureau for Un-Americanisms

WASHINGTON — (By Associated Press)
The Dies committee placed responsibility on the labor department today for "a large part" of subversive espionage, activities and propaganda in the United States.

Reporting to the house on a five-months inquiry of un-American activities, the committee accused the department of failure to enforce the deportation laws.

"The laxity with which the department of labor deals with alien agitators would be unbelievable if we did not have before us the most convincing proof," the voluminous report said.

"Due to limited time and funds, we were unable to go into this question as fully as it deserves, but from the facts which we did obtain, we are convinced that a large part of the espionage and un-American activities and propaganda carried on in this country can be directly traced to the failure of the labor department to enforce the deportation laws of the land."

U. S. WITHOUT 'MAGIC,' RAIL CARRIERS TOLD

Commerce Commission Blames Transportation Problem on Economic Changes.

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON—The Interstate Commerce commission told congress today that the railroad problem could not be solved like a cross-word puzzle.

It blamed the carriers' situation chiefly on increased competition in transportation and said: "The government has no magic which enables it to sweep back the tide of economic change and reverse the result."

Warns Against Politics. The long academic report offered no specific solution for the railroad problem. It defended the ICC type of governmental organization and voiced a sharp warning against politics in utility regulation.

"Domination or influence of the regulatory body by either the executive or legislative branch of the government is certain to bring it within the political sphere with results unfortunate if not disastrous," the report said.

The report voiced opposition to the "two extreme points of view" regarding railroad consolidations and co-ordinations—forced consolidation of the roads into one or several systems, on the one hand, and leaving initiative wholly with the railroads on the other.

"The underlying issue, we believe, which calls for active leadership by the government, as the sole agency which has no special interest to serve but only the general public interest. At the same time, no fixed program is possible or even desirable."

MUCH BETTER!

Snow, Ice Melt as Mercury Climbs to 50.

It was June in January in Mansfield today.

While other midwestern states shivered in freezing weather, the mercury here stood at 50 degrees at noon, and the weatherman said the mild weather probably will continue through Wednesday.

His forecast was for cloudy to night and tomorrow, probably with light rain, and little change in temperature.

Under a warm sun, Mansfield's ice blanket was melting rapidly today and most of the city's streets by noon were free of the coating which has hampered travel since Dec. 26.

The city's lowest week-end temperature was 16 degrees above zero, recorded Sunday morning. The mercury yesterday soared to 45 and today's low was 32, exactly freezing.

MANIAC VICTIM?

Cleveland Tells Police Mad 'Torso Killer' Slashed Him.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—One cheek slashed and bruised about the head, Jack Hart, 26, WPA worker, told hospital attendants today that he believed Cleveland's maniacal "torso slayer" had attacked him.

Hart said he was walking home from downtown when an automobile stopped beside him on the viaduct.

"Do you want a lift?" Hart said the driver asked.

The WPA worker declined, he said, and later whirled under a street light to see the motorist—now wearing a black domino mask—walking toward him with a knife in his hand.

Asserting the man swiftly raised the knife and aimed at his head, Hart said he dodged.

"I realized I was dealing with the torso killer," Hart related to a reporter. "He was wearing yellow surgeon's gloves." (Police have theorized that the killer may be a demented doctor).

HELD IN THEFTS

Former Richland Men Jailed in Ashland Cases.

With the arrest of an Akron man and his son-in-law, who are held in the Ashland county jail on a charge of breaking and entering, authorities believed they had solved a series of thefts of chickens, calves and cured meat from farms in Richland and Ashland counties.

Charles Spayde, 54, and his son-in-law, John Lozier, about 45, apprehended at their home in Akron by Sheriff E. P. Long of Richland county and Dale Ziam of Ashland county, were held in connection with the thefts.

Sheriff Long said Lozier admitted participation in the thefts and involved his father-in-law, who was arrested first and held for investigation. Spayde denied any part in the burglaries.

The pair will be brought before the Richland county grand jury following action by the Ashland county jury, Sheriff Long asserted.

London Acts as Franco Seizes Consular Agent, Wife.

LONDON—(AP)—The British government moved swiftly today to aid a British consular agent and his wife seized by Spanish Insurgent military police investigating alleged espionage activities.

Through its agent at Burgos, Insurgent capital, the government demanded immediate access to the arrested man, Ernest Golding, for 10 years a staff member of the British consulate at San Sebastian, and an investigation of the charges on which he and his wife are held.

Reports from Burgos said the couple were taken into custody in connection with Generalissimo Francisco Franco's investigation of suspected anti-Fascist agents.

RAZING TO GIVE 400 AT SIMPSON EXTRA HOLIDAY

Remainder in City Schools to Resume Classes Tomorrow; St. Peter's Opens Today.

Because razing of the old John Simpson junior high school building has not progressed as expected, about 400 pupils who attend that school will have a day or two more vacation than others in the city, not returning to their classes until Thursday or Friday.

More than 6,000 pupils, meanwhile will go back to school Wednesday morning, including 900 John Simpson pupils who will attend classes in four buildings.

First to get back to work after the Christmas holidays was St. Peter's parochial school where some 900 boys and girls resumed their classwork this morning.

To avoid possible injury to pupils from falling debris, the 400 boys and girls who will finish the year in the newer section of the John Simpson building will be permitted to extend their vacation until workmen have demolished most of the walls of the old structure.

Pupils Scattered. Shifted to all parts of the city because of the razing of the John Simpson school, 900 pupils will attend classes in the Warner building on North Main street, Senior high school, Hedges junior high school, and in a garage building at 20 Bowman street.

Supt. Miller said about 370 pupils in the 9-B grade will be housed, beginning Wednesday, in the Warner building, while 120 in the 9-A grade will attend classes at Senior high school. Classes in the Warner building will be on a half-day schedule.

Pupils in grades 7 and 8 who live west of Main street and north of Park avenue west and Marion avenue will return to the section of John Simpson school which will be retained as a part of the new building.

Pupils in grades 7 and 8 who live east of Main street and south of Park avenue and Marion avenue will attend classes at the Hedges school. All junior high pupils brought into the city in buses will be taken to the Hedges school.

Shop and home economics classes will be conducted in the garage rooms on Bowman street where H. J. Dotson, principal of the John Simpson school, has established his headquarters.

Police Chief Harry L. Stark reported there has been no loss of life in the city from a traffic mishap since Aug. 21, 1937.

'PURGE' STARTS

Hundreds Arrested, Some Killed In Round-Up By Chinese.

HONGKONG—(AP)—Usually well-informed Chinese said today that a "considerable number" of persons had been executed in Chungking, with "hundreds more" under arrest, following the expulsion of former Premier Wang Ching-wei from the Chinese government party for "deserting his post and sowing for peace in contradiction to national policy."

"The 'purge,' first reported on Sunday, was said to be continuing secretly."

GETS PEN TERM

Norwalk Garage Owner Sent Up in Fraud Case.

Harry N. Bedell, Norwalk garage proprietor, was found guilty today of obtaining funds from the Mansfield office of the Crawford Finance company on false automobile title certificates, and was sentenced to one to 20 years in the Ohio penitentiary by Judge E. G. Martin at Norwalk.

Bedell, who was indicted in Huron county on seven counts, had been held under $86,000 bond. He allegedly obtained more than $5,000 from the Crawford Finance company by presenting false certificates of title to obtain loans on cars.

Bedell's former secretary, Miss Caroline Borgia, 26, also of Norwalk, is under indictment in Richland and Huron counties on the same charge. She was released here under $2,500 bond, however, after pleading innocent to the indictment in common pleas court three weeks ago.

Richland county authorities said they would make no attempt to return her to this county to face trial until her case has been heard in Huron county.

SHORT SESSION

Only 2 Measures on Council's Docket for Tonight.

City council will usher in its 1939 legislative sessions tonight, and from all indications, the meeting promises to be a short one, as only two pieces of legislation were on the docket today, Council Clerk William J. Beer, Jr., said.

One, an ordinance prohibiting the sale of 3.2 beer on Sunday is not expected to be up for discussion as it will be given a second reading. First reading of the bill was held at the Dec. 6 meeting. The measure will come up for a vote at the final reading on Feb. 7.

The other measure calls for the renewal on a contract with the General hospital staff physicians for medical care of indigent patients for the year. The contract specifies an annual fee of $5,000.

FIREMEN CHECK GALION MARKET BLAZE DAMAGE

Four Apartments in Building Damaged; Flames Sweep Structure's Interior.

GALION—Damage will amount to several thousand dollars, it was estimated today, from the blaze at the Glinder Dairy Market on Harding Way west which took local firemen more than an hour to extinguish Sunday evening.

The blaze was reported at 7:45 p. m. Sunday by Mrs. Ralph Myers who lives next door to the market.

Confined mostly to the unloading and stock room at the rear of the market, the blaze gutted this part of the building and destroyed much merchandise including a half dozen live turkeys. Smoke and heat caused much damage in the main part of the store and to the four apartments above the store. Heat was so intense in the main store that it broke several smaller windows above the large plate glass show windows. Meter boxes of all of the four apartments above the store were located in the unloading room and were destroyed by the blaze. The fire burned a hole in the bathroom of the apartment occupied by Bernard Flannery.

Smoked caused much damage in all four apartments which will have to be redecorated. Occupants of the departments were not at home at the time of the blaze.

The building is owned by A. T. Flannery, who was unable today to estimate his loss.

W. J. Ginder who operates the market believed that his stock alone in the unloading room would amount to an amount under $2,000.

It was believed that fire was caused by defective wiring.

FORM NEW ASSOCIATION

A Past Chancellors association was formed at a meeting of Knights of Pythias lodges of Richland county at a meeting Friday night at the K. of P. hall in the Bowers building. By-laws will be reported on and a permanent organization will be formed at a meeting to be called by Ross Bringham of Shelby, county deputy.

PROPOSALS FOR REVENUES FROM DOWNTOWN LOTS

Properties Provide Potential Sites for Large-Scale Rental Projects.

Thousands of vacant or nonproductive building lots in downtown or nearby areas of many cities provide potential sites for income-producing large-scale rental housing projects, in the opinion of Federal Housing Administrator Stewart McDonald.

Such areas, already served by adequate police, sewerage, water, and fire protection, offer private capital a sound opportunity for long-term investment, according to McDonald. At the same time, he points out, they may furnish suitable living quarters for thousands of rent payers within walking distance of their work.

"The first approach to a realization of such projects must be through change in the zoning laws, building codes, and other such measures in individual cities. This will permit the construction of large-scale rental housing projects in areas which are now restricted to commercial or industrial uses," McDonald said.

"Sufficient area would have to be rezoned to furnish the proper neighborhood characteristics for residential uses. It would be unsound in every sense to spot such projects in downtown or nearby areas if the immediately neighboring areas contained adverse factors. Of course, land values in individual cities would govern the size of the projects.

"A certain amount of razing of non-income-producing buildings should be feasible for large-scale rental projects. In fact, a greater income over a longer period should result from such projects than that now obtained through utilization of the deteriorating properties.

"There is a wide range of possibilities for private capital in large-scale rental projects through the multifamily and group housing provisions of the National Housing Act. The whole subject brings up a field of operations which, while comparatively new, already is functioning with gratifying results."

WED SISTERS

Brothers Marry Just as Kin Did Years Ago.

VEJLE, Norway.—Two brothers, Henry and Ernst Skovsgaard, who are farmers, married two sisters here on the same day. Their brides were Petra and Marer Hansen. Among the wedding guests were the bridegrooms' father and his brother, who also married two sisters on the same day some years ago.

Brick Bungalow In Colonial Style

FLOOR PLAN

ALTERNATE FLOOR PLAN B

Design 213-A, Courtesy National Plan Service, Inc., Chicago

Bungalow with either five or seven rooms in brick colonial design.

(By Central Press)

There is a quiet dignity and restful charm in this type of colonial bungalow with rooms all on one floor. Built of brick, it also has a solidity that makes it appear like a permanent home.

This house may be designed for five rooms or seven, as you choose.

The five-room plan turns the dining room into a bedroom, substituting therefor a large dinette back of the kitchen and opening into it. Another bedroom and bathroom complete plan A.

The cubage for the five-room plan—plan A—is 21,400 cubic feet; for plan B, 30,000 cubic feet.

LIVING ROOM MODERNIZATION IMPORTANT IN ANY PROJECT

Because it is the center of social activities, the living room of a house should not be neglected when a modernization program is under consideration.

Good furniture cannot look its best against a dingy background. On the other hand, a modern setting improves the appearance of any room, regardless of its furnishings. A cheerful room is enjoyed by the entire family, and the younger members will find it a happy place to entertain their friends.

Careful study of the room may suggest a number of changes that would add to its attractiveness. Would a larger or different type window add to the attractiveness of the room? Does the fireplace serve as a focal point in the decorations, and does it suit the room, or would a less ornate or a larger mantel be more suitable?

Is there another room, little used, which might serve as an addition to the living room, if the connecting walls were removed? Could a wide doorway be arched to look more graceful? Obvious points, such as floors and walls, bookcases, etc., also merit attention.

Funds for such work may be obtained from a financial institution

WILL the class please come to order!

Now, students of sportology, it is customary on the first publishing day of each year for the professor to conduct an examination.

Questions submitted today are selected from a list asked weary sports writers during 1938.

Test your memory against these questions. You rate a passing grade if you can answer half of them. And, if you get 75 per cent correct, you can move to the head of the class and start bragging. The questions, grandstand experts:

1. Name the leading money-winning horse of the year.
2. Name four major league pitchers who were troubled by sore arms last season.
3. Name the Kentucky Derby pre-race favorite. Did he win?
4. Name the winners of the Davis cup, Walker cup, Wightman cup, Curtis cup matches.
5. Who won the Augusta Master's golf tournament?
6. What baseball pitcher had a leg amputated following a hunting accident?
7. Who was the big batting flop of the World Series?
8. Name the new boxing champions of the year.
9. Name the major league batting champions.
10. Name the winner of the Boston marathon run.
11. Name the winner of the National A. A. U. singles handball championship.
12. Which team won the National open polo championship?
13. Who won the Indianapolis 500-mile speedway race?
14. Name the National open, amateur, professional, women's and intercollegiate golf champions.
15. What was the most surprising track record made this year in this country?
16. What basketball player set a new four-year college scoring record?
17. Name the new football coaches selected for 1939 at Iowa, U. C. L. A. and Navy.
18. What players were named most valuable in the major leagues?
19. What pitcher tossed two successive no-hit games? What teams were his opponents?
20. What world records did Syd Wooderson set?
21. Who was the country's top hurdler?
22. What team won the Poughkeepsie regatta?
23. Who set a new automobile speed record and how fast did he go?
24. Name the National and American league pitchers who won the most games.
25. Name the winners of the Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont stake races.

The Answers:

1. Stagehand, with $189,710.

HAWAII NO MATCH FOR COLORED HALF, U. C. L. A.

HONOLULU, T. H.—(AP)—Scoring in the New Year, the U. C. L. A. Bruins defeated the University of Hawaii 32-7 in the "Pineapple Bowl" football game yesterday.

Led by their sensational colored back, Kenny Washington, who had to be rescued by police from a mob of admiring thousands after the game—the Bruins punched over their first touchdown in opening minutes of play, scored again in the second and third quarters and finished up with a two-touchdown drive in the final period.

Budge Underdog in Match With Elly Vines.

NEW YORK (AP)—This is the night that Donald Budge comes of tennis age and learns that there is a powerful lot of difference between the amateurs he has been slapping around for the last two years and Ellsworth Vines, who for four seasons has ruled the world's professionals.

Budge and Vines meet in Madison Square Garden before what threatens to be a capacity audience of 17,000 spectators, and it should be a blistering match, with Vines the probable winner for a variety of reasons. The most important is that Ellsworth, when "right" is just about the greatest tennis player who ever lived.

For Budge, the match inaugurates a professional career that will pay him a flat $75,000 his first winter on the boards. Vines, whose racket has made him financially independent at 27, stands to put away another $30,000 before summer as he and Budge play one-night stands across the land.

However they come out in the long run, this is the match they both want to win, and is the one in which Vines will show the least mercy to his inexperienced opponent.

O'Brien Plays Greatest Game in Farewell

By WILLIAM G. GAUDET

NEW ORLEANS, La.—(AP)—The big day for the little man is over, but the memory of Davey O'Brien's trigger arm will long be bright in the history of New Orleans' Sugar Bowl.

The mighty little Texan more than filled the shoes of Sammy Baugh as he generated the Horned Frogs of Texas Christian into a 15 to 7 triumph over Carnegie Tech yesterday.

He sent 50,000 thrill filled fans home with still mulling by amazement over his bullet passes, his shrewd field judgment, his own clever running and his timely kick that literally sewed the game up in the fourth quarter.

In vindicating a nationwide out that picked T. C. U. as the outstanding eleven of the country and carried it to its 11th straight victory, O'Brien played perhaps the best game of his already All-American career.

Credit without stint goes too, to Center Ki Aldrich and Capt. I. B. Hale, the great tackle, who repeatedly stemmed the Scots' powerful attack.

Out of the 27 passes attempted by Texas Christian, O'Brien hurled 26 and completed 17 for 225 yards.

With the Horned Frogs trailing 7 to 6 at the half, he led his teammates back after the rest period and in five plays put across the score that turned the balance on a pass to Horner, right end.

Mixing short shovel passes and long heaves with bewildering ease, O'Brien started T. C. U.'s first touchdown march late in the first half. He missed the kick and hardly had the 6,000 Texas rooters settled back in their seats than Tech unleashed an aerial attack of its own and held a one-point lead.

Another march in the third period was broken up after 47 yards when Ki Aldrich intercepted a pass on his own 21.

T. C. U. threatened again in the fourth after the 35-yard pass from O'Brien to Horner had put them out in front but the Scots held on their own eight.

But another drive left the ball in front of the cross bars and after two failures in kicking after touchdowns, O'Brien placed the ball squarely between the uprights.

George Muha who played a brilliant game throughout for Carnegie grabbed the ball on the kick-off and twisted his way 53 yards down the west sideline before he was brought down in a desperate tackle by Horner, the last man barring the way to the goal line.

Church Quintets Return to Action

The Class B Church league will start off the basketball parade in the year at the Y. M. C. A. tonight with a program of four games. The games send First Presbyterians against First Lutheran at 6:45, First M. E. against St. John, 7:45; Park Baptist against Mayflower, 8:45; and First Christian against Central M. E., 9:45.

Wednesday's games in the Class A Church league at the Y will be headed by a meeting between First Lutheran and Mayflower at 8:45. The Lutherans, who dropped their first game last week, meet an undefeated club in Mayflower, tackles Central M. E. in the opener at 6:45.

Episcopal faces Park Baptist in the second game, while St. John and Temple Emanuel tangle in the finale.

Tennessee, Utah and St. Mary's Win Other Bowl Games Before Record Crowds

PASADENA, Cal.—(AP)—The shadows had all but swallowed the Rose Bowl.

For 50 minutes a great Duke football team had kept its goal line unbreached—as it had done all season. Southern California was on the verge of its first defeat in four Rose games.

Then, out of the shadows raced a slender youth, Doyle Nave, who hadn't enough playing time in two seasons with Troy to win his letter.

Nave was coming in and the score 3 to 0 against him. From the 40-yard line Doyle rifled the ball to Al Krueger, glue-fingered end. The ball reached the 26. To Al he fired another and the ball was on the 18.

Once more he threw, and the big farm boy from Lancaster, Cal., who developed strong hands milking cows, caught the ball for no gain. Forty-five seconds remained and the dusk was deep.

Taken Ball In Zone.

Nave faded far back to his 35. Trojan blockers knocked down the Duke rushers. Doyle stood there and waited. Suddenly Krueger broke to the left, over the goal line. He was alone among 91,000 witnesses. Doyle fired the ball. Al took it and the game was won, 7 to 3, with Phil Gaspar booting the conversion.

Duke vainly tried to come back in the dying seconds, but the die was cast and soon that record Rose Bowl crowd swept on the field, carrying 177-pound Nave off on its shoulders—splintering the goal posts into match sticks.

The crowd already was moving out when the touchdown came. For Troy had muffed a scoring chance a few minutes before when Bob Spangler of Duke fumbled a towering kick on his nine-yard line and Gaspar recovered.

Three plays netted Troy nothing, and Gaspar's attempted field goal for a much-wanted tie was wide.

Yesterday's game had been a rather dull affair up to the fourth quarter, with two great defensive eleven's battling it out mostly in the center of the field.

Then trouble broke loose for Coach Howard Jones' men. Eric Tipton, whose great punting pulled the Blue Devils out of many a hole, fired a high, arching pass to George McAfee and the ball was on Troy's 24.

Roger Robertson and Tipton punched their way to the 16. Tony Ruffa, third-string guard, stepped back to Troy's 24 and booted a perfect field goal from there.

Silk panties—feminine variety—waved in the Duke stands and rebel yells rent the air. As the fourth period slipped away, Duke's three points loomed ever larger.

Troy, with the great "Granny" Lansdell and his helpers, could not muster a scoring drive, even from the nine-yard line.

Then Nave, who had warmed the bench mere minutes by far than he played in two varsity years, came dashing in.

Out went Duke's great record of no defeats, no ties and no points scored against them.

Today the Duke team and hundreds of rooters started back for North Carolina, sad but shouting a promise to return for the 1940 Rose Bowl conflict.

Troy Earns Victory.

Statistically, Troy earned the victory. Southern California made 13 first downs to 8; gained 135 yards to 86 on running plays, and 84 to 53 on passes. The great Tipton saved for Duke the kicking honors with a 40.5 yard average against 32 for the parade of Trojan quarterbacks, Lansdell, Mickey Anderson and Oliver Day.

"It took four teams to beat us," said Wallace Wade, the Duke mentor, who suffered his first Rose Bowl defeat in four tries. "Their reserve strength was too much."

Coach Jones choked up, as the alumni, some of whom sought his scalp last fall, swarmed in to wring his hand and slap his back. "You've got to hand it to Doyle and Al," he said.

One thing's certain. Southern

Fall Nearly Cost Nave Chance to Be Bowl Hero

PASADENA, Calif.—(AP)—A fall in the Rose Bowl shower room nearly robbed Doyle Nave of the chance to be a football hero.

Southern California's fourth-string quarterback slipped and hit his head on the concrete floor Saturday.

Several stitches had to be taken to get him ready to warm the bench for 50 minutes of yesterday's game with Duke. And he was wearing a big bandage on his forehead when he hurried the winning touchdown pass.

Toledo Edges Michigan Five

Scores 44 to 36 Victory With Second Half Drive.

(By Associated Press)

A Big Ten conference team of recognized merit has established beyond doubt the strength of the University of Toledo Rockets.

This sparkling Ohio aggregation scored its ninth cage victory of the season last night by a sensational 44 to 36 triumph over the touted University of Michigan quintet.

The defeat was the Wolverines' first in seven starts this season.

A second-half drive turned the tide in Toledo's favor. At the intermission Michigan held an 18 to 15 edge. The lead see-sawed in the final half, but Rocket marksmanship and evasive floor work gradually wore down the invaders' defense. Bob Hayes, tall substitute guard, lopped the encounter on by lopping three straight goals in the last minutes of play.

Michigan contrived to hold Chuck Chuckovits, the high scoring star, to 10 points—yet he shared honors with Marshall Carlson, his sophomore cohort.

At Oxford, Xavier of Cincinnati drubbed Miami university's Redskins, 27 to 22. The Musketeers were ahead at the half, 16 to 15. Neary of Xavier sank 13 threes.

OHIO TO START YEAR WITH NEW LOW IN RELIEF

Fewer Than 100,000 Cases to Be on Rols, Setting Record For Five Years.

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS — Ohio will start 1939 with the lowest direct relief load since 1934, the state auditor's office said today.

O. P. Van Schoik, chief relief examiner, said there would be fewer than 100,000 cases on the rolls, as compared with 120,971 at the start of 1938.

Two other aspects in the general program of public assistance, however, detract from the comparatively cheerful direct relief reduction. They are:

Approximately 250,000 persons are dependent upon the Works Progress Administration for a livelihood, an increase of 161,000 over Jan. 1, 1938; and

The problem of financing direct relief in 1939 promises to be a serious one.

Hits 144,777 Peak.

Ohio's direct relief load reached a peak of 144,777 cases in March. Then it tapered off to 81,899 cases in November, thanks to a drastic campaign to rid the rolls of relief "chiselers."

Van Schoik said that reregistration of relief clients in August brought a reduction of 13,000 persons, or 13 per cent. Another reregistration late in the year lopped off 3 per cent more. The surveys disclosed hundreds of persons receiving relief when they had an income sufficient to support them.

The relief examiner estimated that the reduction saved the state and its political subdivisions more than $200,000 a month.

Reduction in clients was reflected in expenditures, which were estimated at $25,000,000 for 1938 as compared with $27,400,000 in 1937.

The year saw Works Progress Administration employment reach a record peak of 286,966 in October. The low was 81,462 in September, 1937.

The WPA spent approximately $203,000,000 in Ohio this year, as against $108,857,000 in 1937.

WPA officials, wondering what congress would do with their future, said they had funds sufficient to operate until March 1. They expect the employment load to drop to about 191,324 persons by then.

Relief financing undoubtedly will be one of the most difficult problems of the new legislature, convening Jan. 2. Some observers say it will be almost impossible to finance relief without new taxes or an increase in present taxes.

Sixteen counties or their subdivisions issued $7,117,918 worth of notes in anticipation of 1939 revenue to finance 1938 relief. The notes were against the utility, beer, admissions and sales tax collections.

The legislature authorized the local governments to issue relief bonds in anticipation of delinquent tax collections, but this plan encountered much opposition because the property taxes are used for general operating purposes.

The year found the state technically footing $19,253,000 of the $25,000,000 relief bill, the local governments providing the remainder.

Calvin Coolidge Memorial Bridge Nearly Finished

NORTHAMPTON, Mass.—(INS)—The final span of steel has been fitted into place in the new $1,500,000 Calvin Coolidge Memorial bridge across the Connecticut river from Northampton to Hadley. The bridge probably will be open to traffic in February.

Pouring of concrete and roadway construction is scheduled to begin shortly, and simple white stone pillars will be placed at each end. Wide approaches will lead up to the main body of the bridge. Dedication ceremonies are planned for next June.

The bridge, authorized with federal and state funds, replaces a 70-year-old iron span which had only an 18-foot roadway and was unsuited for modern traffic.

A 40-foot roadway will be shown across the Connecticut with completion of the Calvin Coolidge bridge, which is viewed by Hampshire county residents as a lasting tribute to the memory of one of Northampton's most famous citizens.

The bridge perhaps will be the most beautiful along the river. More than a quarter mile long, it will be 40 feet higher than the bridge it replaces, high enough and strong enough to withstand any future flood.

Buy Price, the movie-critic-turned-real-estate-agent and the man who makes a specialty of selling mansions to the stars, provided the figures. And if you're interested he'll be glad to sell you Pickford, upon which Douglas Fairbanks and Mary Pickford spent a cool $1,000,000, for half. "It's a bargain," he muttered, "only there isn't much market for castles anymore."

Two years ago, he said, the picture makers owned $149,670,000 worth of property. Their investment was nearly doubled in two years and the tax rolls in part of southern California read like a Hollywood who's who.

Most concentrated investment is on the ocean front at Santa Monica where such film folks as L. B. Mayer, Sam Goldwyn, Norma Shearer, Bebe Daniels, and Norma and Constance Talmadge have spent more than $1,000,000 for the sand in a four-block stretch.

Marion Davies, Norma Talmadge, Richard Barthelmess and Miss Daniels own the most residential property, some of it rented, some of it vacant, and some of it surrounded with high fences for their own use. Miss Davies, for instance, owns 11 acres in the heart of Beverly Hills and 30 lots at the beach.

Winfield R. Sheehan, Douglas Fairbanks and Louis D. Lighton own the biggest ranches. Phil Goldstone owns the most apartments and hotels. Mayer, Joseph M. Schenck, Harold Lloyd, Carl Laemmle, Mary Pickford, C. B. De Mille, Clarence Brown and Harry Beaumont own everything from storage warehouses to bungalow courts, and walk-up apartment houses to Spanish haciendas.

The country squires (and squires) include De Carillo, Barbara Stanwyck, Will Hays, Vic Fleming, Al Jolson, Bing Crosby, Edward Everett Horton, Spencer Tracy, Joel McCrea, Gene Raymond, Carole Lombard, Richard Dix, Clark Gable, Dick Powell, Bill Boyd and Gary Cooper.

Most expensive single estate belongs to Lloyd. It cost him well over $1,000,000. Laemmle's house, next door, cost nearly as much.

Revenue Collector Clamps Down on Tax Extensions

The internal revenue division of the U. S. treasury department announced plans today to clamp down on extensions granted beyond March 15 for paying income tax.

Taxpayers and accountants were advised by Frank F. Gentsch, collector of internal revenue, Cleveland, that no extensions will be granted this year except for illness or enforced absence from the city on business.

"During the last few years, a great deal of confusion has arisen due to the taxpayers requesting extensions of time. This office has formerly granted all these extensions with the result the detail work in the handling of returns has been impaired," Gentsch said.

Absence from home for pleasure, inability to close books, or inability to obtain the services of an accountant will not be deemed sufficient cause for extension, he added.

Calvin Coolidge Memorial Bridge Nearly Finished

NORTHAMPTON, Mass.—(INS)—The final span of steel has been fitted into place in the new $1,500,000 Calvin Coolidge Memorial bridge across the Connecticut river from Northampton to Hadley. The bridge probably will be open to traffic in February.

Pouring of concrete and roadway construction is scheduled to begin shortly, and simple white stone pillars will be placed at each end. Wide approaches will lead up to the main body of the bridge. Dedication ceremonies are planned for next June.

The bridge, authorized with federal and state funds, replaces a 70-year-old iron span which had only an 18-foot roadway and was unsuited for modern traffic.

A 40-foot roadway will be shown across the Connecticut with completion of the Calvin Coolidge bridge, which is viewed by Hampshire county residents as a lasting tribute to the memory of one of Northampton's most famous citizens.

The bridge perhaps will be the most beautiful along the river. More than a quarter mile long, it will be 40 feet higher than the bridge it replaces, high enough and strong enough to withstand any future flood.

THEATERS

WHEN all of the lists of the "ten best" pictures for the year are completed, one wonders how many will include "Love Finds Andy Hardy" and "Four Daughters," both of which were made as program pictures, or class B films, and then turned out to be class A products in houses all over the country. Perhaps neither of them will make the list, but both of them spelled prosperity for exhibitors even though they didn't rate artistically—with "Marie Antoinette," "The Citadel," "Test Pilot," nor "Angels With Dirty Faces."

"Going Places."

When a man who hasn't even a speaking acquaintance with a horse is proclaimed a great steeplechase rider and is set astride the meanest of racers, there's bound to be suspense and excitement. Added to these qualities are romance and some tenuous music in "Going Places," the Warner Brothers comedy starring Dick Powell, Anita Louise and Allen Jenkins. The film is offered at the Madison today and tomorrow, after a Monday opening.

Sky Adventures.

Continuing through today and tomorrow at the Ohio is "Dawn Patrol," the stirring tale of the Royal Flying Corps in which Errol Flynn, David Niven, Basil Rathbone and Donald Crisp share fine acting honors. This dashing squadron of players, all English by birth and tradition, are appropriately cast as English aviators. Adding interest to the cast is the presence of Michael Brooke, who in private life is the young Earl of Wadwick, one of the oldest and proudest families of England, and John Rodion, who is the son of Rathbone.

Ritz Offers "Firefly."

The Harbaugh and Friml romantic opera, "The Firefly," with lovely Jeanette MacDonald as the café singer and Spanish spy, will be the feature attraction at the Ritz Wednesday and Thursday. Allan Jones and Warren William give her capable support in this musical romance which has the tuneless "Giancana Mia," "Symphony," and the rollicking number written for the screen version "The Donkey's Serenade." An episode of the Jones Family, "Love On a Budget" is the second film.

Comedy of Errors.

Gables Reach Settlement on Property, Divorce Nears.

HOLLYWOOD.—(UP)—The way was cleared today for the Clark Gables to be divorced, which in turn was expected to prearrange his marriage to Carole Lombard.

It was announced in court that Gables and his estranged wife, Rheba, had reached agreement over a property settlement. The film actor reportedly paid her $250,000 during the three years that they have been separated.

Mrs. Gable had objected to being limited to the agreement and said she opposed the manner in which payments were to be made. Gable had sued to have the agreement declared legal and the case was ready for trial when lawyers for both sides said a truce had been reached. No details were given.

The truce was expected to be followed by the filing of a divorce suit by Mrs. Gable.

NATURE VICTOR

September Blossom Blooms Into Fruit in Massachusetts.

EVERETT, Mass.—(INS)—Mother Nature waged a battle with the elements and emerged the victor here. Spoils of the victory, a small apple, was picked by Robert Hiltz in his back yard. According to Hiltz the apple is the product of a blossom that bloomed in September a few days before the disastrous hurricane.

SCREAMS SAVE $514

CLEVELAND.—(UP)—A would-be robber hit Miss Nettie Vidmar on the head with a club, but she kept on screaming and saved $514 she was taking home from the café she operates. The disappointed robber and his accomplice fled.

Pilot Hits Wires, Flies On, Willing To Pay Damages

ROSEBURG, Ore.—(INS)—For a miraculous escape from a fiery death, Lieut. Richard F. Lorenz, of March Field, Cal., must pay $350 to the California-Oregon Power company.

Lieut. Lorenz was flying low through the river valley when his ship struck three heavy copper cables, each with a tensile strength of 5,440 pounds. Observers reported that a huge ball of fire brightened the countryside as the plane smashed into the wires.

Power company employees searched the terrain for several hours for wreckage of the plane, believing that no plane could have escaped serious results from such an impact.

Weeks later Lieut. Lorenz solved the mystery when he corresponded with authorities and asked for a bill of damages.

RELIEF TO BE PROBLEM CHILD FOR ASSEMBLY

New Legislature Will Take Over Task That Kept Old
One Pondering.

(Editor's Note: This second in a series of stories on the problems of the new legislature which came into existence yesterday.)

By E. E. EASTERLY

COLUMBUS—(P)—The new Ohio legislature fanned a lusty squalling baby on the doorstep when it moved into the statehouse yesterday.

It was tagged "poor relief"—the problem child of the 1937-38 legislature.

And it was crying for immediate attention.

Numerous counties, ending 1938 with relief fund deficits, are looking to the incoming general assembly to furnish the money necessary to continue aid to the needy.

Gov.-elect John W. Bricker hopes to finance relief out of current revenues. Some observers say he will be a wizard to provide adequately for relief without new taxes or an increase in present levies.

Cost Estimate $25,000,000.

The state auditor's office estimated the cost of 1938 poor relief at $25,000,000, a reduction of $2,500,000 under 1937.

The state government technically provided $19,255,000 of 1938 relief funds; the local governments the remainder.

The question which plagued the 1937-38 legislature—whether local governments should share at least half the cost of relief—undoubtedly will be debated in the new assembly, dominated by Republicans.

Then there will be the question of how to distribute state grants. Many rural members of the 1937-38 legislature insisted upon a formula which gave 18 counties more state relief money than they actually needed, while other counties had to raise local funds for the needy and still could not find enough.

But the money first must be found. O. P. Van Schoik, chief relief investigator in the auditor's office, said that practically the only funds available for relief in 1939 were $6,500,000 from the sales tax.

The 1937-38 legislature authorized the local governments to issue relief notes in anticipation of beer and liquor permit fees and delinquent tax collections. Legislators estimated approximately $5,000,000 could be obtained in 1939 from the fees and that there was a potential $55,000,000 available for relief in delinquent taxes.

The local governments, however, use the fees and taxes for general operating expenses, and Van Schoik said none issued relief notes against them in 1938 and none is likely to in 1939.

Authorized Notes.

The legislature also authorized the issuance of notes in anticipation of 1939-40 utility, beer and admissions taxes, as well as 1939 sales revenue, estimated to yield a total of $15,000,000. Notes for $7,117,000 were issued by 16 counties or their subdivisions.

The remainder of the borrowing power, however, rests in counties which don't need the money, so the balance is of no benefit to those which have exhausted their resources.

The Republicans in their state platform asserted they believed the cost of relief should be paid out of current revenues supplied through the cooperation of the national, state and local governments.

Demands that county governments be required to accept more definite responsibility for the administration of relief undoubtedly will be made before the legislature. Some municipal officials have become exasperated by counties dumping the burden upon the cities.

The payment of unemployment insurance benefits has been expected to relieve the pressure on government for relief funds, but it may be offset by a reduction in WPA employment which would throw thousands of persons back upon relief rolls.

DROPS THIRD

County's Sales Tax Receipts for '38 Set at $81,000.

Richland county's sales tax receipts, which are used for local government expenses, declined one-third this year from the 1937 figures, Deputy Auditor Arthur S. Beck said today.

The county's share of the state tax to December this year totaled $81,503, compared with $120,370 last year, a decrease of $38,767. Collections throughout the state will be at least $10,000,000 below the 1937 receipts, State Treasurer Clarence H. Knisley predicted. Stimulated by Christmas buying, sales tax receipts in the county for the week ending Dec. 17 jumped to $13,415, one of the highest marks of the year. For the state, total receipts for the week were far ahead of the corresponding week in 1937.

76TH CONGRESS SESSION OPENS, BATTLE AHEAD

Foes of Liberalism Expected to Put Check on New Deal's 'Command Rule.'

weak links in the chain being forged for defense of the western hemisphere.

One of the key areas is the Caribbean sea, now virtually undefended from the air, and the vital outpost of defense of the Panama Canal and southeastern United States.

Another is Alaska, northern pivot of the Pacific defense triangle, whose legs rest on the Panama Canal and Aleutian Islands with Hawaii as its spearhead.

The third area is the New England States.

Both the latter are vital areas for protection of not only the continental United States but of Canada, also, which the chief executive has included in the sphere of the Monroe Doctrine.

So far as is known, Mr. Roosevelt has no new or startling legislation to spring upon congress, aside from the national defense program. In fact, the leaders are of the opinion that the principal work of this session will be to overhaul some of the New Deal measures that are already on the statute books.

See Amendment Need.

There is the Wagner labor relations act. The Republicans and a great many Democrats are convinced it should be amended to give employers a better "break" in their relationship with employees.

There is the current agricultural adjustment act (the triple A), which has been found wanting in many respects. It has failed to keep up the prices for farm commodities—cotton, wheat and corn—and in some farmer elections, as in tobacco, it has been voted down by the farmers themselves.

There is the gigantic Social Security program, against which in recent months there has been a steady stream of criticism. Republicans are going to demand its amendment on a "pay as you go" basis. This has been complicated, too, by the fact that a great many of the new Republicans elected in November, as well as some Democrats, embraced the Townsend plan, or something very akin to it. Dr. Townsend himself has moved on Washington to direct in person the battle of the old age pensions in this session.

Relief Battle Seen.

There is promised a terrific battle over federal relief. Unless congress acts speedily, within the first month of its session, work relief payments will stop early in February. Estimates of how much money it will take to continue relief for the balance of the fiscal year (June 30) range from $500,000,000 to $1,000,000,000.

The compromise figure is around $750,000,000. The Republicans, again supported by some conservative Democrats, are going to de-

"They Called Me 'Red' as a Boy"

Shelby

Six members of the Epworth league of the First Methodist church will represent their group Saturday at the annual Mid-Winter Institute of the Mansfield district of the Methodist church at Mt. Vernon. Rev. Arthur Staples will accompany the group to the institute.

Mrs. Raymond Brucker will entertain the Busy Bee club Wednesday for an all-day meeting at her home, east of Taylortown. A pot-luck dinner will be featured.

Work in the F. C. degree will be held at 7:30 p. m. today when Shelby Lodge No. 350, F. & A. M., meets at the Masonic temple with J. J. Moore, worshipful master, presiding.

Troop 3 of the Boy Scouts will meet Wednesday night at the First Methodist church with Scout leaders Jacques Kaler, Louis Wright and Jacques Armstrong in charge. Plans will be announced concerning the Civic day election to be held this month.

The members of the Mercere club will hold their first meeting of the new year Thursday at the home of Mrs. Gail Ewalt, 30 Mansfield avenue. Sewing will be the diversion of the evening.

Mrs. Jack Hanno will entertain the Women's Foreign Missionary society of the First Methodist church at 7:30 p. m. today.

was reorganizing Detroit's social service — instituting several reforms similar to those to be set up later under social security by President Roosevelt.

Auto plants were shutting down, banks were closing, relief rolls were growing. Murphy called on Washington to help; care of the unemployed, he insisted, was a national problem.

In May, 1933, after Roosevelt had become president, Murphy resigned as mayor to accept a Roosevelt appointment as Governor General of the Philippines.

He had been in the Philippines three years when, in 1936, he was called back. Elections were coming up and Democratic leaders figured that Murphy-for-Governor would help carry Michigan.

Murphy won. He scarcely had taken office on Jan. 1, 1937, when a sit-down strike in Flint inaugurated a series of labor troubles that beset his administration.

Amidst the clamor that the sit-downers be evicted, Murphy held out against bloodshed. He finally brought about peaceful settlement of the strike. But critics have said ever since that he did not know the importance of property rights.

After a witness before the Dies committee had testified that Murphy countenanced communist activity, Murphy replied, "They called me 'Red' as a boy and they call me 'red' now."

Last November he was defeated for re-election after a campaign largely concerned with his labor record.

A BAD COLD HAS ALLIES

By John C. Davis, Druggist.

Flooding the banner of that "bad cold" comes hurrying a host of allies, not one of them welcome, pleasant or even safe to endure.

One warlike ally is sinusitis, just an overextended visit of your cold, long after it should have completed its course. Once known as "chronic catarrh," this inflammation of the sinus cavities about the head and face causes excruciating discomfort, reduces your efficiency, is a constant threat to health.

Do not endure this enemy to health and happiness. Consult a medical doctor, prevent sinusitis from taking a permanent seat in your system.

Be sure that vaccines, serums or any medication prescribed by the doctor is procured from a reputable druggist.

FAVORS PENALTY AGAINST JAPAN

Pittman Would 'Ostracize' Nippon With U. S. Legislation.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chairman Pittman (D., Nev.) of the senate foreign relations committee said today he would favor "ostracism" of Japan if that nation "fails to live up to our moral standards."

"Understand," Pittman told reporters, "I don't favor ostracism right away."

Asked what form penalties against Japan might take, the Nevada senator asserted that "there would have to be legislation, of course."

officials to influence votes. A change in the law to make it a felony instead of a misdemeanor for officials to discriminate against relief workers.

Legislation limiting individual contributions to candidates, preventing corporation donations and requiring complete reports of campaign costs.

Laws to prevent candidates from obtaining relief lists and forbidding promises of benefits from relief funds.

Legislation curtailing the use of congressional franking (free mailing) privilege.

Consideration of legislation to make all political contributions by federal workers illegal.

The report was signed by all five committee members—Chairman Sheppard (D., Tex.) and Senators O'Mahoney (D., Wyo.), Walsh (D., Mass.), Harrison (D., Miss.) and White (R., Me.).

The bulky document listed campaign contributions and expenditures by senatorial candidates.

The latter ranged from zero to the $159,451.37 disbursed in the primary and general campaigns of Senator Taft (R., Ohio).

Field investigations were made in 18 states—Arkansas, California, Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Maryland, Missouri, Nevada, New Jersey, New York, North Dakota, Ohio, Pennsylvania, South Dakota, Tennessee, Vermont, and Wisconsin. The committee found that supporters of Gov. Albert B. Chandler, who lost to Sen. Alben W. Barkley in the Kentucky primary, collected about $70,000 from "state employees whose salaries had been partly or wholly derived" from federal funds.

At the same time it said $24,000 was collected from federal employees in Kentucky as "subscriptions intended for candidate Barkerley's campaign committees."

NERVE STRAIN APLENTY—BUT NO JITTERY NERVES

FOR CARL DOSSEY—CHAMPIONSHIP COWBOY AND STAR OF THE RODEO

GREAT RIDING, CARL, BUT IT MUST BE PLENTY TOUGH ON THE NERVES

SURE IS, BUT I BEAT NERVE TENSION BY EASING OFF WHEN I CAN—

I LET UP—LIGHT UP A CAMEL! I FIND CAMELS ARE SOOTHING TO THE NERVES

HIS NERVES MUST BE UNDER TERRIFIC TENSION

THE MAN ON THE "BRONC" is Arizona's Carl Dossey, winner of two bareback championships in California and a high-point cowboy title at the big Utah show. Here is Carl at New York's Madison Square Garden in a thrilling stunt depending on split-second timing, perfect nerve control. Is it a strain? Carl says: "One hour around the ring puts more strain on the nerves than a whole day of punchin' cows. My nerves would be plenty tense, jittery if I didn't rest 'em every chance I get. My way is to let up—light up a Camel. Camels are mighty comforting."

LOOK TO THE DOG FOR A VALUABLE HINT ON NERVE STRAIN

THE ENGLISH SPRINGER SPANIEL (above) is speedy, agile. He has a highly developed nervous system. In fact, it's remarkably similar to our own... complex, sensitive. But, unlike so many humans, this dog doesn't ABUSE his nerves. Nor does any dog. When a dog feels tired, he rests INSTINCTIVELY! We humans often let our will-power whip us on, deaf to the warning that nerves are getting frayed. Yet how much more pleasant, profitable life can be when nerves are rested now and then. Try it... break the tension... LET UP—LIGHT UP A CAMEL! You'll welcome Camel's mildness—rich, ripe flavor. Smokers find Camel's costlier tobaccos soothing to the nerves.

RECORD-HOLDING woman parachute jumper, Marie McMillin (right), knows the nerve strain of stepping into thin air—4 miles up! She says: "I protect my nerves from tension by giving them frequent rests—I let up—light up a Camel."

STORE MANAGER (left) W. A. Knox's life is different from Dossey's, but there's plenty of nerve strain in it. "I'm on the jump all day," he says, "but it's my rule to break nerve tension by taking short recesses—letting up and lighting a Camel."

Boston Fish Cake Recipe

Get a package of fileted codfish and soak for about an hour, changing the water at least once. Peel and cut up about twice as many potatoes as you have codfish, cutting each potato in eighths. Put the codfish and potatoes together in cold water and let cook until the potatoes are thoroughly done. Drain in collander and shake over the fire until dry. Mash with a potato masher and add butter the size of an egg and salt and pepper to taste. Beat two eggs to a froth and add to mixture. Then beat the entire mixture thoroughly with a wooden fork or spoon. Cover tightly, put in ice box and let stand for three or four hours. The cakes should be fried only when they are to be eaten immediately. Have deep fat ready. The secret of these cakes which are famous in New England, is not to touch with the hands. Take out tablespoonsful and push into the fat with another spoon. Drain

Use Lemons

Here are some good uses for lemons: Rub match scratches on paint with cut side of a lemon and rinse quickly with cold water applied on a cloth. Use half a lemon peel dipped in salt to remove stains from copper and brass. Wash in warm water and soap suds and polish with soft cloth. To bleach linens yellowed by age boil them in six cups of water, two tablespoons of bluing and half a lemon. To keep wooden sink drain boards clean, rub them often with half a lemon and.

Jelly makes a delicious topping for drop or sheet cakes! It's sort of old-fashioned too. Beat the jelly with a fork and then spread it generously on the cake. Any kind of jelly is good, but currant, plum and grape are favorites with white or yellow cakes.

Peper up regular boiled dressing with horseradish, chili sauce and catsup and serve with baked or broiled fish. They go well together and are especially appetizing in cold weather.

Prepare Tasty Dishes From Left-Overs

By PAULINE SCHOFIELD
(Home Service Department of the Ohio Fuel Gas Company)

Now that the holiday season is over, we will all be seeking attractive ways to prepare and serve leftovers. There will probably be several cups of that big turkey left after it has been picked off the bones.

Let's surprise the family by using our leftover meat in a new and appetizing dish.

Salmi of Goose.

4 cups cooked goose meat
2 cups brown sauce
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 tablespoons Worcestershire
12 ripe olives
12 slices hot toast

Simmer goose for about 20 minutes in brown sauce or stock made from bones and leftover bits of bird and seasoned with lemon juice and Worcestershire. If there are leftover carrots and peas from the previous night's dinner they may also be added to the dish. Just before serving, add olives which have been cut into pieces, discarding the stones. Serve on toast.

Chicken or Turkey Loaf.

4 cups ground cooked chicken or turkey
1 cup milk
1 cup stock or canned chicken broth
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1 small onion, minced
2 eggs, beaten
2 cups soft bread crumbs

Combine ingredients and mix well. Pour into greased loaf pan. Bake in moderate oven (375°F.)

Chicken Souffle.

2 tablespoons butter
4 tablespoons flour
1/2 cup chicken broth
1 cup irradiated evaporated milk
1/4 teaspoon salt
Dash of nutmeg
4 eggs
1 1/2 cups cooked chicken, cut fine
1/2 cup coarsely chopped almonds

Make a thick sauce of the butter, flour, broth and milk. Season with salt and nutmeg. Remove from heat and beat in egg yolks one at a time. Set over boiling water and cook 3 minutes longer. Fold in chicken and almonds, then the stiffly beaten egg whites. Turn into a buttered baking dish. Set in a pan of water. Bake in a moderate oven (375°F.) until set, about 40 minutes. Yield: 6-8 servings.

The almonds may be left out if desired, but we think they add a touch which appeals to everybody.

Turkey or Chicken Body.

2 cups cooked chicken or turkey, flaked
1 cup mushrooms
1 pint tomato
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
Biscuit dough made from 3 cups flour

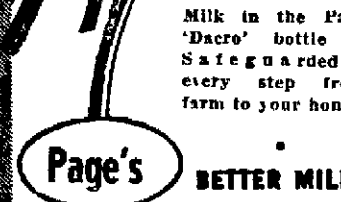

Roll biscuit dough into oblong shape 6 by 18 inches. Then spread with filling made from ingredients listed above. Brown mushrooms in butter. Moisten chicken or turkey and vegetables with a little gravy. Roll as for jelly roll.

Turkey and Peas en Casserole.

2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup turkey broth
1/2 cup tomato ketchup
Salt and pepper
2 cups cold turkey
1 cup cold cooked peas
Bread crumbs

Melt butter in the pan. add flour and mix well. Add turkey broth, ketchup and cook until boiling, stirring constantly. Season with salt and pepper. Place cold turkey and peas in alternate layers in a baking dish or pan and pour the hot sauce over them. Sprinkle with bread crumbs and dot with butter. Bake in a moderate oven until brown.

For one hour or until firm and slightly brown. Serves 6-8.

Serve Buffet Supper to Guests: Prepare Foods Far In Advance

By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE
(AP Feature Service Writer)

Prepare your New Year's day foods in advance so you can have a good time, along with the rest of the family, when guests drop in.

Serve buffet style, too. That makes the party more cozy as well as taking another burden off the hostess's shoulders.

Stuffed eggs have a way of putting themselves over, and they keep well. Mix several kinds of cheese together with a fork, add seasonings, salad dressing and mashed hard cooked egg yolks. When well blended, roughly refill egg whites, covered with waxed paper and chill until called for.

Before putting the eggs on the table, dress them up with sprightly garnishes—parsley, sliced olives and pickles, or pimento strips.

How About Jellied Loaves?

Make up several jellied molds such as ham, veal or chicken loaves or vegetable or fruit salads. You can take one right out of the refrigerator and serve it. Relish or mayonnaise dressing go well with these molds.

Then the famous pot of beans, alone or surrounded by several of those new-fangled individual jars, will usually satisfy the most finicky appetites. Glorify the beans by including one-fourth cup spiced peach or pear juice and one-third cup canned tomato soup (without milk) to each four cups of beans.

Escalloped oysters, creamed crab en casserole, au gratin mushrooms or chicken pie are other hot foods that seem to have been invented for buffet lunches. These foods need only twenty minutes cooking in moderate oven after join ends to form a ring, and seal. Place on a greased pan, shaping it so that it will fit a serving platter. Cut diagonal gashes with scissors 3/4 way through ring at 1 inch intervals (as for Swedish Tea Ring). Twist each section over on the side to show filling. Bake at 425 degrees (a hot oven) for 25 minutes. Serve hot with gravy. The center of the ring may be filled with colorful vegetables.

There's something—datelets—that are just the things to serve with egg nog or hot coffee and they fit right into the buffet table.

Datelet Surprise.

Stuff dates with pimento cheese and roll up each one in a small square of pastry. Fasten the edges and prick the top. Store them covered in refrigerator until baking time. (They can be made day before.) Then pop them into moderate oven for five minutes. Bake as needed, and you'll need a lot, so be prepared.

For another surprise try fruit balls. They are easy to prepare, and can be made a day in advance. Shape doughnut dough into an inch sheet. Pinch off dough and form into balls one inch in diameter. Insert chopped figs and broken nuts sprinkled with grated orange rind. Fry as for doughnuts. When ready to serve sprinkle or roll in toasted coconut or dark brown sugar, mixed with a little cinnamon.

A sandwich loaf adds gaiety to a buffet table. Use different sandwich fillings and cover the outside of loaf with cream cheese. This loaf really improves in flavor by chilling several hours in cold place.

Crackers and cheese too can wait a long time Hunt around and pick up some of the newer types, there are several on the market and lay out quite an assortment for choices.

New Year's Party Cake.
(Devil's Food Cake)

2 cups sifted cake flour
1 teaspoon soda
1/2 cup butter or other shortening
1 1/4 cups brown sugar, firmly packed
2 eggs or 3 egg yolks, unbeaten

CHAPTER 37

He went personally to Wade's—Clarence Wademan, florist, had been a popular Rice man a few years before—and picked out the best roses to be had. He wrote his informal note on a card that Clarence supplied, sealed it in an envelope, put it inside the box. Two dozen roses, $5. It was fortunate that Dr. Holgate had a reasonably good income. But then, he had been reared in comparative affluence so that penny-pinching was unknown to him. He knew quality, knew that quality buying was economy buying in the end. He suspected that this sound dictum would apply even to roses. But, having sent the roses out, he worked himself quite unnecessarily into a dither about Peaches' acceptance. Would she, or would she not, turn down his request for a date?

Peaches settled that detail rather promptly. "Why, Thornton, how thoughtful!" she gushed into her telephone, using by chance almost the same phrase Sara Sue had used. "How can I refuse you, when you send such lovely flowers. Of course I'll go to the dance with you!"

Of course! Dr. Thornton Holgate, Ph. D., scholarly graduate cum laude from a famous school, prominent now as a faculty man and recognized as a thinker, had a date. Of course! His roses had worked! Or so he thought.

Actually he was too naive, too boyish, to realize that he was still a campus hero who had been in the headlines, and that almost any girl would be honored if he asked her for a date now. Actually, if amounted to a genuine coup for Peaches, whose general stock had been sinking of late.

He talked a bit and said goodby, strangely disturbed. Now that he actually had a formal date with Geraldine, at the one outstanding social event of the season, what should he do? Strangely, his enthusiasm was no whit near what it should have been. He had sudden visions of a drunken Peaches, acting disgustingly at the freshman dance. And of a Peaches telling off-color jokes en route to Galveston. He gave quiet but apprehensive thought to these things.

But he squared his shoulders then, and stepped outside. He clamped his jaw. Well, by George, he'd go ahead with it. Sara Sue had warned him that a lover must give as well as take, must not expect the girl to make all the adjustments. If, therefore, pretty Peaches was determined to enjoy life in a somewhat wild manner, he would join her at least to a degree.

A foreigner placed suddenly on Main street of Houston, Texas, on this December night, would surely have said that civil war had come to America. Bedlam broke loose about sundown. At 7 p. m. a mob had assembled at Main and Lamar streets and, urged on by the most excited and skilled of agitators, had started an invincible march.

Four abreast, the mobsters stormed down Main street, in the very heart of town. The noise they made was deafening. They literally overwhelmed everything that opposed them. Automobile traffic came to a standstill. Gentler citizens stared in awe, and not a few were openly fearful. The police were helpless, and wisely made no attempt to stop or even to control the mob; on the contrary, a few officers actually aided the marching women and men.

The mob was not intent on defying any government or storming any bastille, but simply on letting the entire universe know that Rice Institute had defeated the University of Mexico in the big international football game. They verified what the extra editions of newspapers and the radio announcers were proclaiming.

They wanted the world to know that one Mr. Robert Osborne

Towne, Rice end, had speared a lateral pass with one hand, stiff-armed two tacklers, shaken off two more, and galloped 35 yards to earn the only six points scored on Rice field that afternoon.

The mob included every physically able person, including janitors and cooks and gardeners, who had anything to do with Rice at all. Beaming like the benign old president that he was, even Dr. E. O. Lovett was in the downtown throng. The old gentleman was immensely happy to see his colleagues so exuberant; secretly he yearned a little for his own youth, wishing that he, too, might turn handspins on Main street. He felt his pulse quicken when "Yea-a-a-RICE!" reverberated like collegiate thunder among the downtown buildings.

Thornton Holgate, caught in the rush to town after the game was over, found himself hooting and yelling with the others. The contagion of happiness was strong enough to engulf him, and when

8 o'clock came he was almost hoarse. People might have mistaken him for a hilarious senior, not a sedate instructor in the mathematics department. But at 8:30 the marching had ended, and he remembered—with sudden alarm—that he had a date that evening. He chartered the first available taxi to rush him back to the campus.

Thornton wanted to be dressed perfectly for this ball. He had decided (at Sara Sue's urging) to wear his tuxedo. Most of the boys would do so, she had known; and he looked fine in it. Full dress would be too formal, and business suits too informal. As a matter of fact, many people were going in Mexican costume, especially many girls. For this was an international ball, and only to break training at the end of football season, but to honor the visiting squad from Mexico City. The Mexican guests would be resplendent in gold-braided pantalons, boleros and serapes and great picturesque hats. A renowned Mexican orchestra—Los Charritos—had been brought over from San Antonio, most Latin of all the Texas cities.

These things had all been inspired partly by the fact that the Mexican theme was always beautiful, and partly by the fact that such a ball would be a courteous gesture which could help build international good-will. Astute student leaders had already pulled the necessary political wires to get national attention for this social function, and so already had telegrams from President Roosevelt and President Cardenas to be read as a surprise during dance intermission tonight.

Our national shame

LOUDER than the riotous welcome of a New Year, above the tumult of the joyous celebration, comes the shocking news of the shameful need of sanitation in our country today.

Surveys just completed by the United States Government of 8,000,000 homes in 203 cities show 15 out of every 100 have no private water closets—20 out of every 100 have no private baths. This average applied to our entire country means there are 4,500,000 dwelling units without water closets—6,000,000 without baths.

More startling are the figures showing that half the homes in some communities lack these primary sanitary facilities. And when you consider the dangers of faulty, old fashioned plumbing in daily use, you can appreciate the grave menace such conditions present to public health.

Why should you be concerned about these deplorable conditions instead of allowing medical authorities and public health officials to shoulder the whole responsibility?

Polluted water, swiftly spreading disease, is no respecter of persons. The same water and sewage mains that serve the slums serve the finest residential districts.

The health of our whole population depends upon an adequate supply of pure water and the prompt, safe removal of dangerous waste. And both pure water and safe waste removal depend upon good plumbing.

It is not enough to insist upon plumbing fixtures of excellent quality. It is of vital importance that they be installed correctly! And safe, economical plumbing service cannot be sold over the counter.

That is why "Standard" Plumbing Fixtures are marketed through recognized Wholesale Distributors to Master Plumbers. Only the Master Plumbers have the knowledge, experience and skill necessary to protect the health of the nation by correct installation.

Congress Meets—For Better or Worse.

AS the 76th Congress swings into action this week, with continuance of a Democratic majority in senate and house, the really serious question is whether majority sentiment in congress also carries through to support of Roosevelt spending policies and further New Deal experimentation in paternalistic governmental theories.

It lies within the power of the present congress, by repeal, correction, and new legislation, to return the United States to sound policies and practices in government, to stem the tide of wasteful expenditures of public money, and to restore the confidence necessary to bring even greater individual and collective prosperity than has thus far been experienced.

The records show that both federal spending and the national debt have just about doubled since Franklin D. Roosevelt became president of the United States!

Unless congress can be depended upon to curb the deficit spending that has been going on for almost six years there can be no escape from the eventual national disaster that is now foreseen by thoughtful Democrats and Republicans alike.

Only the most naive of visionaries can find satisfaction in a program of exorbitant taxation and profligate expenditures such as has been carried on by the New Dealers during their bureaucratic regime.

Last November's elections evidenced growing sentiment in favor of a return to fiscal sanity on the part of the federal government. There is some justification for hope that this expression of views by millions of voters will be reflected in the acts of congress during this session.

Whatever improvement has been noted in general conditions during recent weeks has obviously been based on such a hope, and the recovery motion will be either stimulated or retarded by the acts of this session of congress.

Such appointments as that of Harry L. Hopkins to the cabinet post of secretary of commerce, and Frank Murphy, defeated for re-election as governor of Michigan, as attorney general, fail to inspire hope of a changed attitude on the part of President Roosevelt toward solution of national problems.

Highway Hazards Being Reduced.

WHILE 1938 brought a considerable reduction in traffic accidents in Ohio and other states there is still such vast room for improvement in this field that last year's record can be accepted only as evidence of what CAN BE DONE when motorists, law enforcement, officials, safety organizations and the public in general really awaken to the importance of safe driving, and the necessity of withholding driving privileges from persons who cannot be trusted with such responsibility.

There was a 20 per cent reduction in traffic fatalities in Richland county last year, with a number of other Ohio cities—notably Cleveland—showing an even better record. In Ohio the reduction in fatalities, as compared with 1937, approximated 35 per cent.

Looking back over the year it will be noted that some element of carelessness or recklessness was involved in practically all of the fatalities and minor accidents that occurred in Mansfield or vicinity, and that a number of them could have been avoided had rules of safe driving been observed by all parties concerned.

Speed, intoxication or incompetence played a part in a considerable percentage of last year's traffic accidents, as had been the case in previous years, with so-called minor infractions of traffic regulations contributing a large share of the collisions which resulted in injuries and property damage.

Ohio's weakness thus far, as compared with a number of other states, is in failing to establish and enforce actual speed limitations, and the casual way in which drivers' licenses are issued without test of ability, physical or mental qualifications, or drinking habits of applicants.

On Mansfield's streets there is consistent disregard for traffic regulations, and rules of safe driving, by many motorists, with several streets notoriously used as speedways and little attention paid to requirement for a full stop at intersections before entering a street on which other cars have the right of way.

Driving without lights, or with only one headlight, after the time specified by law for turning on lights, is another of the common practices in Mansfield and vicinity, in which there is no apparent attempt at enforcement. Nor, except in a spasmodic way, is anything done to discourage the dangerous practice of night parking without lights on residence streets.

The impossibility of having a police force large enough to keep tab on all violations of traffic regulations should be realized by everyone. This makes it important for careful motorists to voluntarily conform to traffic regulations and to co-operate with the police department in observing and reporting instances of careless, reckless and drunken driving, so that habitual offenders can be warned—and eventually weeded out.

Democracy Primers.

A GOOD IDEA has been launched by the American Student Union, which has been holding its fourth national convention in New York. It supported the proposal of its national secretary, Joseph P. Lash, that every American college start a course of study to be called "A Primer for Democracy."

This suggestion is inspired by the Nazi and Fascist primers which set forth the doctrines of the dictatorship countries. The American primer would not only teach young people the principles of our political philosophy and free way of life and business, but would compare and criticize the new doctrines now current.

Such a primer, clearly and sensibly written, would make plain the folly and fuzziness of much totalitarian thinking.

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON — Congress is unlikely to attempt any revolutionary solution of railroad difficulties this session simply because there is no revolutionary solution which looks like a sure thing.

A glance at the report of the President's railroad executive-employee committee, together with operating statistics of railroads and their competitors discloses all too clearly the complexity of the problem.

Not only are the facts of operation in themselves difficult to adjust to bring about an improvement in railroad condition, but regional political and economic factors are so entangled that Congress could not act independently of them.

Barely had the committee come forth with its recommendations than the most railroad-minded member of Congress, Senator Wheeler, chairman of the interstate commerce committee, flatly opposed one of the recommendations. His home state of Montana, together with much of the Rocky Mountain territory, would be badly hit by acceptance of the committee's proposal to abolish the long and short haul section of the inter-state commerce act.

Jealous of Protective Rate. YEARS ago the railroads used to charge low rates for long cross country hauls, particularly between the Mississippi and the Pacific Coast, so as to compete with ocean-going commerce connecting the east and west by means of the Panama Canal. The Rocky Mountain territory paid higher rates simply because there was no water competition. Later, this practice was denounced by the Rocky Mountain territory as an inequality and was prohibited.

Much manufacturing and farming have developed in the Rocky Mountains because of this protective rate clause and any attempt to eliminate it would unite the mountaineer congressmen in one solid block of opposition.

Midwest grain growers and southern cotton growers in turn would fight any proposal to bear down on the federal barge line on the Mississippi, as was suggested by the President's committee.

The South long has been on the short end of the freight rate deal, but northern and western manufacturers would balk at any juggling of the structure which would let products of cheap southern labor invade northern and western markets.

Moreover, not all the problems can be touched by Congress. Increased local taxation is a problem. In 1907, taxes on the country's 230,000-mile railway system totaled $73,743,000. Although truckage increased only 10,000 by 1936, taxes were $324,858,000.

Many Faulty Points. THE remedy must be sought on many fronts.

It is possible Congress may curb the booming truck industry now credited with major inroads on business once going to the railroads. This has been proposed.

Terminal consolidations are possible but abandonment of duplicating railroad lines always is fought both by local communities and members of Congress from the affected territory.

The Interstate Commerce Commission and the railroads themselves have manipulated rates downward and upward and downward again without establishing which was more helpful.

It is likely that if the railroads can demonstrate the need of a wider field of experimentation about consolidations, rate adjustments, and truckage abandonment, Congress will be lenient. The railroads abandoned a proposed 15 per cent wage cut two months ago under circumstances which put the bee on the government.

THE NEW FRIENDLY ATTITUDE

Labor Department Holds Attention

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON — With Harry L. Hopkins in the cabinet, plotting grand schemes for co-operation with business which would put a million to a million and a half men back to work, and off the relief rolls, thus making a long step towards overcoming business and middle-class taxpayer opposition to his presidential candidacy, interest now centers on the labor situation.

Congress is listening attentively to business demands for more slashing of the Wagner labor relations act than the American Federation of Labor wants. Changes in the labor relations board will be hotly discussed, with Donald W. Smith's renomination either withdrawn or beaten by the senate, and embarrassing moves, including impeachment talk, made against Edwin S. Smith. (The A. F. of L. is for impeachment.)

SANE direction of the labor department, as well as the labor relations board, has become almost a slogan. Liberals and some radicals are demanding that the president name Governor Frank Murphy, of Michigan, as secretary of labor instead of attorney general or justice of the supreme court. They think Murphy is ideal, but the biggest part of their wish is to get rid of Miss Frances Perkins.

The first lady cabinet member is being attacked by men and women who are extreme liberals, so it is not just Wall Street inspired propaganda. Nor has it to do with sitdown strikes, for Murphy, who was defeated for reelection as governor of Michigan on that issue, is the candidate most of them are boosting. All the old stories are being raked up against Miss Perkins, including her famous remark that if the folks in the south would wear shoes there would be more work for the shoe factories.

But President Roosevelt is loath to do any forcing. The probability is that unless he discovers some way of kicking her upstairs she will remain on the job. In fact, despite the ambitions of Louis A. Johnson to be secretary of war, betting is even in Washington that there will be no more cabinet changes until James A. Farley resigns next spring as expected.

ANOTHER cabinet change which is constantly being rumored in the news dispatches is in the treasury department. The most frequent rumor is that Joseph P. Kennedy will succeed Henry Morgenthau, jr. The truth about this is that the one job Kennedy has really wanted for years is treasury. It is the only one that interests him. He didn't want to be ambassador to Great Britain. He told close friends just before he sailed to take the job that he wouldn't think of taking it!

But it is also true that Morgenthau doesn't want to resign. He likes the job and has held on to it, despite many rumors, for a long time now—ever since ill health forced William H. Woodin to resign. Moreover, the president likes Morgenthau, is his upstate New York neighbor, while Mrs. Morgenthau and Mrs. Roosevelt continue very close. On top of this Roosevelt always knows that, no matter what Morgenthau may think about any given move, he is 100 per cent loyal to the president in word and deed, and will obey orders to the limit of his capacity. Then too there is the suspicion in the state department, of which the president has been advised, that Kennedy did not exactly court himself with glory in London. He was taken in socially by the British but they did not find it necessary to keep him right up to the minute on developments.

A GOOD many years ago I began collecting books which tell you how to keep young, or how to live comfortably to a ripe old age.

There are quite a lot of them. Heaven knows when the first ones were written. The oldest one I have is that one of Arnold of Villanova, which appeared in 1290. A. D. Villanova was a Spaniard, a friend of the contemporary popes and kings of Spain, Naples and Sicily. King James of Spain asked him to write a treatise on preserving youth, so he compiled his "Defense of Age and Recovery of Youth."

Francis Bacon, the philosopher whom some misguided souls think wrote Shakespeare, also published such a treatise.

There is a kind of air of mortality that hangs around these works. There seems to be no surer way to die young than to write a treatise on how to live long. Bacon died at 65, and Villanova lived to be about 70, surely no record for a specialist on longevity. The only advocates of a system of long life who attain a ripe age were an Italian, Louis Carnaro, and Metchnikoff, and they had the canniness to wait until they were old before giving advice on the subject.

Latest Is Favorite. But the latest edition to my collection is my favorite. It seems to me that it gives the only sensible advice I have ever heard on this debatable subject. It is called "How to Look Eleven Years Younger," by Gelett Burgess.

Mr. Burgess is not a beautiful man; he does not attempt to advise you how to look 11 years younger by cosmetics or face-lifting, or to keep fit by exercises or diet or various prohibitions. He believes that youth is in mind, and if you want to look 11 years younger, you have to do it by making your intellectual interests 11 years younger.

He has as frontispiece, a photograph—not a drawing, mind you, but a photograph—of a man and woman, husband and wife, sitting at a table in a restaurant. They have just ordered dinner, the waiter has gone off to get this order and they are waiting. They sit back with a completely dumb expression on their faces. They might as well have a placard on their chests saying, "Expect no new ideas from me. I have jelled."

Habit of Mannerisms. Then Mr. Burgess points out another habit of people who have crystallized, who could look 11 years younger if only they wouldn't act so Methuselahish. It is the habit of mannerisms. You know, sitting with your fingers touching as if in prayer, or digging your forefinger into your cheek, washing or ironing the hands, pulling down the mouth or mugging—all gestures of frustration and second childhood.

Other mannerisms, which Mr. Burgess doesn't mention, but which indicate to me even more complete mental stagnation, are the use of phrases in place of thought. "What's wrong with that?" "That's what you think." "There you go again." With dread at a faculty or board meeting now I await the inevitable opening of nearly every member's discussion—"Well, it seems to me..."

Some of Mr. Burgess' aphorisms:

"Crow's feet are caused by grins and grimaces and usually go with a fallen face."

"A perpetual smile that means nothing is a senile trait."

"Beauty parlors cannot make you youthful. The only efficacious facial massage is done from within by the mind."

"Dancing is a public revelation of the secrets of the subconscious mind and its revelations are often disastrous."

A Course on Lincoln.

When Charles Evans Hughes was governor of New York he expressed the hope that "in our colleges and wherever young men are trained, particularly for political life, there could be a course in Lincoln."

Lincoln Memorial university at Harrogate, Tenn., of which Dr. Stewart W. McClelland is president, now offers such a course.

Professor R. Gerald McMurtry teaches it has made wide research and written much about the Emancipator. He happily proves that the principles and policies Lincoln stood for are sound and permanent in American life. It would be difficult to imagine a more valuable course for young men and women in any college.

In offering a course on Lincoln Dr. McClelland's college is doing some real pioneering in effective thinking and teaching. — Toledo Blade.

A Farmer's Diary

The Coon Hunt.

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

I shall never forget my first coon hunt. I went with one of our neighbors, who had two dogs. I asked him why he wanted to kill the coon.

"Don't you know," he said, "that he's a thief? I had green corn in this field, and whole families of coons would climb up the stalks, pull down the husks and eat one side out of every ear. Then the other part shriveled. There's an old male who pulls down the stalks for the others. I've got my eye out for him. The dogs are in good shape, and I'm hopin' we'll find him tonight."

About 9 o'clock we were in the woods. Thick clumps of underbrush, thick clumps of underbrush, and a pond of some depth was in the center. There were some large, old beech and sugar trees. On one of these my friend hoped to find the coon.

The dogs raced off, among the leaves, with random yelps. Suddenly my neighbor stopped. "Hear that!" he exclaimed. "They've got somethin' treed!" A noisy duet of barks came from toward the pond. He set off on a run. I followed.

Away up in the top of a tall beech, two eyes shone like torches in the flashlight's glare. The dogs were leaping and yelping, down below. Then, surprisingly, the coon came down. He slid, an angry, furry blur, with snarling teeth and ringed tail, to the foot of the tree. The dogs abashed, moved back a few paces, then made a dash. He met them with a slashing claw that brought the blood to eyes and noses. Warily, the dogs hesitated. He took advantage of the pause, and ran for the pond, with them in hot pursuit.

Into the water went the coon, the best dog after him. Then suddenly the dog disappeared. The wise old coon had grabbed his forefoot and pulled him under.

The farmer swore, vengefully. "He's drowned my best dog," he said. "A coon can stay under longer than a dog can. I saw it happen once before. Here, Tiger—come on and let him go."

We went back home. The farmer was depressed and angry. Of course it was not my dog. I remembered the tough, hard battle the coon had fought, and the clever way he had trapped his enemy.

COUNTY ALLOTS $7,400 TO MEET RELIEF EXPENSE

Funds From State Enough to Pay Only Half Month's Bill; City Receives $3,800.

Richland county commissioners today allocated $7,442 in state relief funds to Mansfield and Shelby and the county's 11 township with the heaviest relief burdens.

The allocations, which will pay less than half of the total relief bill for November, provides $2.95 for each of the 1,969 relief cases in the city and county.

The city and other subdivisions, however, will make up the difference between the state allocation and the actual relief expense for the month which totaled $15,347.

Administration costs for November amounted to $1,634 which will be paid from the state allocation. City Has Two-Thirds Cases.

Mansfield, with 1,218 relief cases, or about two-thirds of the county's total, received the largest allocation from the state—$3,824. The city's relief bill for November was $8,363.

With 413 relief cases, second highest number, Madison township got $986. The township's November relief expense was $1,928. Shelby got $469 to pay bills amounting to $1,011, while the city had 159 relief cases.

LEAVE CHURCH TO NAB THIEVES

Men Form posse to Catch Chicken House Raiders.

EDNA, Kan.—(U.S.)—When it comes to capturing the interest of a church congregation, chicken thieves are too much competition for the pastor of the Trenton United Brethren church.

During Sunday evening services a woman entered while a hymn was being sung and whispered, "They're stealing Jim Christmore's chickens."

Before the hymn ended all the male members of the congregation were on their way to the Christmore hen coop where they interrupted the task of two men who were emptying the roosts.

The men fled by dropping their bag of chickens, but abandoning an old car.

MARRIAGES ADD TO HOLIDAY FESTIVITY

Two Brides of 1938 Disclose Weddings Over Week-End; Miss Katherine Kern, Russel Humbert Take Vows Sunday.

ALTHOUGH the holidays were not highly favored this year by engaged couples, one pair was married on Sunday evening, and another couple chose the week-end for announcing their autumn marriage. Mr. and Mrs. Emil Helbig, 342 West Sixth street, disclosed the marriage of their daughter, Evelyn, this morning.

She became the bride of Oliver McAllister, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Jones, rear of 334 West Sixth street, at Orlando, Ky., Nov. 20, 1938.

Federation Tea Set for This Friday Afternoon

The first event of the New Year planned by the Mansfield Federation of Women is the business meeting and tea at the Women's Club, Friday afternoon at 2:30 p. m. Mrs. E. J. Gilbert, president of the Federation, will preside during the session, and Mrs. E. K. Bacon will read an English play.

At the close of the program tea will be served to the members. Mrs. Lester Redding and Mrs. Stanley Schuller are in charge of the social hour. No reservations are necessary, it was announced.

Miss McMullen Hostess to Card Club Members

Miss Birdella McMullen, 122 1/2 East Second street, was hostess last night to members of the Happy Eight club and their guests. Cards and games were played, and prizes were awarded to Miss Helen Hahn, and Mrs. Violet Reed.

Luncheon was served at a table decorated with silver and orange appointments. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hazensahl, Miss Helen Horn, Ralph Landis and Arthur Rhoads. The next meeting will be Jan. 8 with Miss Glada Green, 354 South Diamond street, as hostess.

PLAN GUEST PARTY.

A guest party will be an event of Jan. 16 for Ruth chapter, Order of the Eastern Star. Plans for this party were made yesterday evening when the members met at the Masonic Temple, with Mrs. Miriam Gross presiding as worthy matron.

OPEN HOUSE.

Dr. and Mrs. K. E. Buhr, 3 Glenbeck Lane, were at home to friends and neighbors on New Year Day.

New Year Day Chosen by Couple

At 6 o'clock on New Year day, Miss Katherine Kern became the bride of Russel Humbert in a quiet ceremony at Shenandoah. The service was read by Rev. Turner Holt in the First Christian church before 14 close friends and relatives of the couple.

Mrs. Humbert wore a blue velvet dress for her wedding, and her shoulder corsage was of gardenias. She is the niece of Mr. and Mrs. George Stelts, Springmill road. Mr. Humbert is from Epworth.

After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Stelts had a supper at their home for the wedding party. Later Mr. and Mrs. Humbert left on a short motor trip through northern Ohio. Mrs. Humbert was graduated from Mansfield high school and has been employed as a technician at the Mansfield General hospital. Mr. Humbert works for the Mansfield Lumber company. The couple will reside in this city.

Ashland Pair Reveal Marriage of March

Still another nuptial event of interest to persons in both Mansfield and Ashland was the announcement of the marriage of Miss Louise Harper to Burling Schuck, Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Harper, Ashland, parents of the bride, disclosed the marriage which took place March 5, 1938.

The former Miss Harper became the bride of Mr. Schuck, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Schuck, Ashland, at Ft. Wayne, Ind. The service was read by Rev. Paul D. Kraus, pastor of Trinity Lutheran church, at the church.

Mrs. Schuck is a stenographer at the Tappan Stove company, and Mr. Schuck is employed at the J. F. Orr Typewriter company.

NEW YEAR DINNER.

Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Barr, Greenwood avenue, entertained with a New Year Day and birthday dinner in honor of their son, Donald W. Barr, Sunday. Out-of-town guests present for the family party were Mr. and Mrs. Barr, Altoona, Pa., Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Hout, Cleveland, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Carrick, Richmond, W. Va.

NO MEETING TUESDAY.

Members of the American Novel group of the American Association of University women will not meet this Tuesday evening. The next regular meeting date will be Jan. 17, but plans for that time were not announced.

Miss Norma Jane Burgraf, Mansfield, has just returned home after spending four weeks with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Yough, Mount Liberty.

Install Officers of Veterans Club In Memorial Hall

The installation of the officers of the United Spanish War Veterans was held last evening in Memorial hall. The Ladies Auxiliary of that group had an open house during the afternoon, followed by dinner at 6:30 o'clock with 65 in attendance.

Mrs. Ella McHugh, who is president of the Daughters of Union Veterans, was the first speaker of the evening. Others who spoke to the group were Mrs. Sarah Oster, Sam Fox, a member of the board of trustees of the Memorial building; Zane Shaw, a veteran of the foreign wars; and Rev. Grover S. Swoyer.

After the dinner, the installation of camp officers took place with R. W. Stephenson serving as installing officer, and Charles Crawford as master of ceremonies. J. G. Wallace was installed as commander, with Charles McGreggor and Joseph Mackley assisting him as senior vice-commander and junior vice-commander, respectively.

Other officers, who were installed for the coming year, were Thomas E. Brown, officer of the day; Martin Burkhardt, officer of the guard; T. M. Bell, adjutant; Anson H. Smith, quartermaster; W. C. Donnan, chaplain; William Groff and Henry Puder, color guards.

Personals

Mrs. P. F. Haley, 715 Highland avenue, and her house guest, Mrs. Jessie Rhonemus, Lima, spent Saturday in Columbus.

Miss Ruth Bonnar has returned to her home in Beaver, Pa., after spending the holidays with her aunt, Mrs. M. E. Christiansen, Woodville road.

Joseph A. Hecht, 31 Penn avenue, left yesterday for Tucson, Ariz., where he will spend the remainder of the winter with his son, A. A. Hecht.

Mrs. Susan Wheaton, 64, Lexington avenue, returned Friday after spending the Christmas holidays with E. S. Wheaton and family at Indianapolis, Ind.

After a two-week vacation spent with his mother, Mrs. A. R. Perl, and sister, Joan, Walter Perl, 18 Penn avenue, left last night for New York, N. Y., where he is a senior at Pratt Institute.

Mrs. I. M. Palmer, 324 West Fourth street, has returned to her home after spending the holidays with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Palmer, at South Bend, Ind.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald W. Barr returned to their home in Altoona, Pa., last night after spending the past week with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Barr, Greenwood avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Wentland, West Fifth street.

Raymond Boyer, student at the University of Idaho, left yesterday for Moscow, Idaho, after spending the holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Boyer, 4 Remy avenue.

Informally Speaking...

Lucy Dear:

Happy New Year! 1939 is well on its way today—already three days old . . . and Mansfielders certainly welcomed it in fine style with dances, toboggan parties, open houses and the like.

THERE were lots of pretty gowns at the University club dance Friday evening. . . . I do wish you could have seen Pat Kramer's dress. . . . It was black velvet, held over each shoulder with three tiny black straps . . . then a wide belt made from three shades (blue, cerise, and orchid) of velvet ribbon circled her waist and tied in individuals bows at the front. . . . I'm convinced that Pat missed her calling—because she designed it herself.

Betty Penhorwood was also wearing black at the dance—a full net skirt with a sequin bolero jacket. Betty's mother, Mrs. Barney Ford, created a striking contrast in a dark red velvet gown with a shirred bodice. Betty entertained with an open house Saturday afternoon, too.

There always seemed to be a crowd around the entrance to the ballroom Friday night—perhaps it was because Margaret (Caldwell) Ford was giving carnations to the gentlemen—white to club members, red to the guests . . . and it could have been, too, that there was mistletoe over the doorway. . . . You know that's always quite an attraction!

THEY had some very fine decorations at the Our club dance on Saturday evening, too. There was the usual laurel, holly, and pine, but in addition, a large gourd-like container was suspended in the middle of the ballroom. At the stroke of 12, the gourd was opened and a shower of balloons tumbled out for the guests. . . . There were also lots of noisemakers and paper hats on hand . . . and a large Christmas tree in the corner was trimmed with brightly colored balloons instead of the usual ornaments. You would have been surprised to see that everyone was on time for the dance—I think it was due to the door prizes.

Ruth Fiedler and Frank Mengert entertained with an unusual type of New Year party Saturday evening. The group went tobogganing and then had a spaghetti supper at Frank's home afterward. . . . Kit Sturges had an open house for her friends over the week-end, and Mary Alma Gaa gave a surprise birthday party for her husband, Earl, yesterday evening. . . . They started the party with supper at 7 o'clock. . . . Dorothea Grimes entertained her sorority sister of Beta Sigma Phi and their dates with an open house before the University club dance Friday evening.

The Arthur L. Glatkes entertained at New Year day dinner Sunday, having a dozen guests. One of the guests was LeRoy (Bud) Parmelee, who pitched for the New York Giants when they won the world's series in 1933, and later for the St. Louis Cardinals and the Chicago Cubs. He was with Minneapolis last year, but will be with the Philadelphia Athletics this year (Goodness, I hope I got the names of all those teams right).

THERE were lots of people in and out of town over the week-end, too. Jack Tappan went down to Norfolk, Va., with Louise Brown to visit with her relatives. Jack was graduated from Kenyon college last June and he's now enrolled at Western Reserve law school. Louise lives in Berlin Heights . . . she's a graduate of Ohio Wesleyan.

Do you remember Carl Simon, who left here for California two years ago? Carl blew into town New Year eve to surprise his friends, and thrilled them with a lot of colored movies of the west coast's beauty spots. He had been in Peoria on business, and just ran over to Mansfield to say "Hello" to his friends. He left for the coast, via plane from Chicago, yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Wilson started the New Year out right—just like you and I would like to—they left for Florida Sunday with F. W. Hetler . . . and will be gone a month.

I HAD a pleasant surprise yesterday afternoon when Janet Wolfe called me . . . you remember Jan, she moved to Sandusky some eight years ago. She told me that the family is now living at Shaska beach the year round . . . except Peggy, who's married and lives down in Tennessee. The Wolfe family was visiting at the Allen Bond home yesterday.

By the way, Janie Bond has returned to Virginia Intermount junior college in Bristol, Va., where she is taking her first year's work. . . . she likes the school very much. . . . and says that the southern girls are about twice as hospitable as us northerners.

George Martin Biddle is rather uneasy about returning to Cleveland Art school this week. . . . because it's this week that his fraternity is having rough initiation for the pledges . . . so hard work, long hours, and hikes in the cold are in the offing for George. . . . Paul Cropper, jr., returned to Wittenberg college yesterday afternoon . . . a little worried at the prospects of finals. Paul is a freshman and pledge of Beta Theta Pi fraternity.

Well, Lucy, now that our two week-end holidays are over, perhaps I can manage to get back on schedule with my correspondence . . . so I'll promise you a letter next Monday . . . and until then . . . Much love, MARIANNE.

BRIEFS

Members of the Optima club entertained their husbands at a New Year eve watch party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Orrin Vogel Saturday evening. Mrs. A. D. Robertson and Mrs. Lavern Pagel had charge of the affair. A pot-luck dinner was served at midnight.

A group of friends were entertained at a watch party at the Byrer-Hoffman home in Maplewood New Year eve. Mrs. A. C. Byrer and Mrs. J. M. Elder were hostesses.

Mrs. R. N. Crooks entertained at two tables of contract at her home on Emerald street Friday evening. High scores were held by Mrs. Howard W. Murray and Mrs. B. C. Lewis. Mrs. Crooks served a lunch.

Turkeys for the New Year dinner for patients and staff at Municipal hospital were given by Paul Simmermacher, as has been his custom for several years.

Dinner Frock

A number of New Yorkers are wearing dinner frocks like this fuchsia one, shown at a recent fashion show at the Ritz. The bodice is shirred chiffon and the skirt crepe.

INSTALL TOMORROW.

The Miriam Rebekah lodge will conduct installation of officers tomorrow evening at the I. O. O. F. hall. There will be no dinner served preceding the meeting, and the meeting of the circle has been postponed.

DOLLY MADISON NOTICE.

Members of the Dolly Madison club will meet tonight in the Chinese room of the Mansfield-Leland hotel instead of at the Women's Club as was previously announced.

CARRY-ALL GIFT

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. — Jane Wyman's favorite gift to her friends is a tailored bag fitted with cigarette case, compact, coin purse and cosmetic bag, all made of the same leather as the bag.

VARIETY OF PARTIES WELCOME NEW YEAR

Our Club Dance, Celebration at Swisher's, Entertaining for Out-of-Town Guests, Tea Dance Events of Week-End.

EVERYTHING from the most rigidly formal attire to informal sports wear dotted the Mansfield scene Saturday night as folks around town sped 1938 on its way, and welcomed the New Year. Among the smartest functions of the season was the Our club New Year eve supper dance at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

Joe Cisco and his Musical Magpies supplied both sweet and hot melodies for the dancers between the hours of 9:30 p. m. and 1:30 a. m. The committee in charge of the affair included Mr. and Mrs. Tom Ford, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Hartman, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hout and Martin Wolf.

There were 171 members and guests of the organization present for the holiday function, which was preceded by a private dinner attended by a large group of the members at the hotel. Door prizes were presented at the beginning of the evening to Mrs. George Draffas, Mrs. Carl Stander and Mrs. Victor Smith.

Large Affair.

One of the largest parties in Richland county was the pig roast given by Jim and Toots Swisher at their farm near Clearfork Run. Several hundred persons were present during the evening. At midnight a supper of roast suckling pig with all the trimmings was served to the guests at long candlelit tables arranged in the dining room. During the evening John Grabler played accordion selections for singing and dancing.

Another event of the holiday was the surprise birthday party given last night in honor of Mrs. Michael Miller. The evening was spent in bridge and dancing.

Fete Houseguests.

The houseguests of Miss Norma Prion were fete'd at a party given recently by Miss Prion when she entertained at her home on Mendota street. The guests of honor were the Misses Elizabeth and Anna Stulpin, Elizabeth, Pa. There were 22 present for games and dancing.

Out-of-town guests included Gerald Bush, Shiloh; Bertha and Charles Poffenbaugh, Crestline, and Robert Bush, Chillicothe.

Tea Dance.

Even the younger set of Mansfield entertained for the holidays this year, and prominent among the hosts and hostesses were

Working Girl Should Rejoice

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Rejoice, girls! Throw your hats up to the ceiling (if they're down-right hideous models, I hope they don't come down again). But whatever may be your favorite method of being joyful, show it, show that you live in these blessed United States, where women are women and are permitted to draw pay envelopes.

Leading European dictators, who are giving the world the jitters for fear it may be plunged into war overnight, would do well if they'd stop poking out their chins, prancing, strutting, demanding purges, and call into conference a group of nice old ladies. These women really know human nature.

These Old Wives would tell the super boys a few facts of life, of which they seem to be totally unaware, in their strutting, posing and otherwise playing at being modern Caesars.

The nice old ladies would tell them that there is no matchmaker on earth like propinquity, or, as the dictionary defines it, "state of being near."

In overwhelming large numbers, young people fall in love when they see enough of each other. Offices, factories, shops, offer better opportunities of falling in love than meeting occasionally at dances or other social functions.

But the dictators of all countries, in firing woman from jobs, have completely overlooked this fact. They want mass-marriages, they want citizens, they want soldiers, and they imagine the best method to increase their countries' population is to keep women at home, instead of letting them go out in the world where they'll have a chance to meet, marry and become wives and mothers, though, heaven grant, that their babies may not grow up to be cannon fodder these dictators are looking for.

Girls who have joined the fault-finders and pout over conditions in this country would do well to consider the facts about giving up their comfortable pay envelopes, staying home to dust the living-room furniture and, keeping an anxious eye out for the arrival of a change husband. But husbands really don't arrive that way.

HOROSCOPE

For Wednesday, January 4.

PROBLEMS and uncertainties beset this day, according to the lunar and mutual aspects. There are sinister and subtle entanglements, as well as situations boldly vengeful and vindictive. These may lead to litigation and strife, with disagreeable situations and very doubtful results, unless there be much vigilance and sagacity exerted against fraud, treachery and craftiness. Even friends may fail.

Those whose birthday it is may not find affairs harmonious this year unless they exercise unusual awareness, precaution, keen judgment and shrewd action in tricky, smooth and even fraudulent situations. Resort to law is indicated, but it is a doubtful issue. Both undercover and open treachery menace and demand direct and drastic action, even with alleged friends. A child born on this day may be active, versatile and possibly too clever for its own good. It may become involved in much trouble, perplexity and difficulty because of its own eccentricities. Early discipline and directions are enjoined.

Potatoes that are to be French fried should stand in cold water at least an hour before cooking.

Wife Preservers

When washing house dresses or children's dresses which have sashes, ribbons, etc., wash the garment inside out. It prevents sashes tangling.

Marriage Meddlers

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

By ADELE GARRISON

"In the vernacular, Noel, have a heart!" I adjured him. "Mary has just gone through two grueling rehearsals, all the more strenuous because I did not interrupt her at all. She was keyed up to the highest pitch. Look at her! She's as limp as the well-known dish rag is supposed to be. She'll do no more work for hours, if I have anything to say about it."

"Will you kindly inform the assembled multitude who else would dare to utter a yelp on the subject?" Dick gibed, "playing up" manfully. "But I agree with you. Sit down, Niece, before you fall down."

With a startled look Noel turned to his young wife who was leaning listlessly against the door, completely spent with her efforts. He lifted her tenderly in his arms, carried her to the couch and deposited her upon it. Then with masculine clumsiness, he tucked a pillow under her head and gave her a husky command.

"Don't dare to raise your head!" he told her. "Just lie still and rest!"

What She Needs.

"At a boy, Noel!" Dicky applauded. "That's what she needs, a little conjugal authority. What say, Madge? Don't you think we can leave our niece in her husband's care while we go over the details of their get-away from here when they're ready to go?"

"I fancy we may trust her to him," I said, smiling, and started for the door. "I'll want you for a half an hour late this afternoon, Mary, and an hour this evening. And some time during the afternoon and evening, get in a quarter of an hour on your dance practice."

"What's that?" asked Dicky quickly.

"Nothing that you can see now," I told him firmly. "You'll have an opportunity to see it some day later after Noel has had to go back to the farm. She won't be rested enough to give it before you have to leave."

"Seeing that I have to leave in about a half-hour flat, I don't believe she will," Dicky retorted. Then he walked over to Mary's couch, stooped and kissed her cheek, stood erect again and offered his hand to Noel.

"Au revoir," Uncle Dicky, she said. "I'll be seeing you—and thank you."

"For nothing," Dicky retorted with a parting grin at her, "but you're welcome, just the same." On the gibe we went out of the room, our last glimpse of them showing Noel bending over Mary with anxious, adoring solicitude.

"Well! we put that one over," Dicky said complacently when we were safely back in my room again. "Now we'd better tackle that letter to Miss Whitlock which I'm to take down to Thorp and have him mail."

I sat down dutifully at the writing desk, and took out some of the hotel note paper.

"You're not using that, are you?" Dicky gasped. "Remember, this letter is supposed to come from South Jersey. What's eating you, anyway?"

"This note paper is going only as far as the waste basket," I told him, "and there only in tiny bits. I have my own monogrammed note paper in my case, on which I shall copy this letter. But the first draft, for correction, is going on this."

Dicky drew a burlesqued sigh of relief.

"I breathe again," he said. "It did not seem possible that you'd pull a bony line like that, but you've been through enough in this business to addle any brains, even the strongest."

Can't Quality.

He put his hand on his heart and bowed grandiloquently.

"But get busy, pronto, please. I can't hang around here much longer, if I make that trip down to Thorp and get back in time for some things I have to do."

The hesitation in his voice, the sudden gloom in his eyes, brought back the fear which temporarily had been banished by his apparent lightness of mood. The mysterious menace which hung over him had not been dissipated, as I thought, and the shadows of the drunken woman who had telephoned me, and her gangster companion, were still looming over him.

I found it a hard task, however, to answer him lightly and with no hint of the swirl of emotion within me. But manage it I did, and I am sure Dicky suspected nothing of my real feeling when I spoke.

"I'll work as fast as I can," I promised, "but you must remember I have no etiquette book nor complete letter writer before me."

"Just take your pen in hand," he gibed with a grin. "Let her know you're well and hope she is the same, and then go on from there."

Finishes Letter.

"I'll do that," I answered, wrinkling my nose at him. Then for a few minutes I wrote steadily while Dicky blew smoke wreaths from his cigar into the air.

When I finally laid down my pen, I read the letter over, made two slight corrections, and then held it out to my husband.

"Will you read it, please, and tell me if you think it will do?" I asked.

"I'm ear-minded, not eye-minded, today," he said. "I know it's all right, but if you're yearning to have me lamp it, read it aloud to me. I promise to listen most carefully."

I took the letter and settled back in my chair.

"Dear Miss Whitlock," I began, but got no further, for the telephone shrilled insistently, and I looked at Dicky in panic. Nobody was supposed to know where we were save Miss Whitlock, and she already had given me the news of Philip Veritzen's activities. What could have happened?

To Relieve Bad Cough In a Hurry, Mix This at Home

Swift Acting, and Saves Big Money. Easily Mixed.

You'll never know how quickly and easily you can relieve coughs due to colds, until you try this famous recipe. It gives you about four times as much cough medicine for your money, and you'll find it truly wonderful, for real relief.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking needed—it's as trouble as all. Then put 2 1/2 ounces of Flax (obtained from any druggist) into a pint bottle. Add your syrup and you have a fall pint of medicine that will amaze you by its quick action. It never spoils, lasts a family a long time, and tastes fine—children love it.

This simple mixture takes right hold of a cough. For real results, you've never seen anything better. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and quickly eases soreness and difficult breathing.

Flax is a compound containing Norway Pine and palatable gualacol, in concentrated form, well-known for its prompt action in coughs and bronchial irritations. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

Give Neck Good Treatment

By MME. QUI VIVE

Skinny little slims who have hoisted their curls are surprised to find they are all neck. When regarded in the mirror there seems to be a terrible lot of it.

It's not always all that it should be. Has fuzzers on it. Funny down streaking points maybe. Yes indeed, my hearties, that area has to have a look-see if not a definite cleaning up party to get the hair line right.

As it isn't fair not to consider the neck fore as well as after, you might as well take a complete survey and see how yours is standing up.

The best-looking neck has been known to turn sour, take on criss-cross lines. They come from the bad habit of letting the chin drop when sewing or writing or doing whatever you're doing that necessitates the downward glance.

When the chin is low, it's easy to drop the shoulders forward, causing relaxation of the musculature of the chest and neck. When muscles have too much time off they get out of form. They soften, lose resiliency. If your neck is going back on you, get a jar of massage cream this very day—write it down on your shopping list—and use it faithfully every night.

After the face and neck washing, have the skin as dry as a bone. Slather your hands with cream, rub the flattened fingers up and down the neck, using both hands at once. Keep going right around. To insure firm jaw contour rub from chin tip to ear lobes.

While the cream remains on frisk an ice cube over the skin surface. Nothing like refrigeration to harden the tissues.

When you're all chilly and feeling goosefleshy, pull up your chest, hold in your tummy, put your hands on your hips, wig-wag your head. Turn it from side to side with a mean, poisonous pull on the muscles. Just moving does nothing.

"The Authority on Authority"

AUTOMATIC REWARDS
SOUND PLAY for the number of tricks normally in sight sometimes will bring automatic rewards in the form of an extra trick or so from a squeeze play which develops along the way. This occurs upon occasion even when there has been no particular striving for such extra tricks, as a natural accompaniment of correct tactics.

Edwin N. Moore, one of the best players of the Union League Club in New York, did a neat job of picking up an unscheduled trick at rubber play of this deal. His partner in the North opened the bidding with a pretty weak not vulnerable 1-Club. Mr. Moore bid 2-No Trump in the South and his partner had to raise it to three.

After West took in the diamond K and A, he put Mr. Moore in with the 4 to the J and Q. The club 10 was finessed, a lead to the heart A was followed by the club Q finesse, and then the heart K and Q were raked in to make way for a possible squeeze if the suit didn't divide evenly in the defender's hands. When it turned out that East held four hearts, there was still a squeeze chance to turn an apparent three no trump, if the clubs didn't break, into a sure five-odd if East had to guard the spades as well as the hearts.

So Mr. Moore next led to the

ing. Make the fibers work until they howl for you to let up. In the morning apply ice cold water, sponge the skin surface with witch hazel in which a little boric acid has been dissolved.

Install Officers of Veterans Club In Memorial Hall

The installation of the officers of the United Spanish War Veterans was held last evening in Memorial hall. The Ladies Auxiliary of that group had an open house during the afternoon, followed by dinner at 6:30 o'clock with 65 in attendance.

Mrs. Ella McHugh, who is president of the Daughters of Union Veterans, was the first speaker of the evening. Others who spoke to the group were Mrs. Sarah Oster, Sam Fox, a member of the board of trustees of the Memorial building; Zane Shaw, a veteran of the foreign wars; and Rev. Grover S. Swoyer.

After the dinner, the installation of camp officers took place with R. W. Stephenson serving as installing officer, and Charles Crawford as master of ceremonies. J. C. Wallace was installed as commander, with Charles McGreggor and Joseph Mackley assisting him as senior vice-commander and junior vice-commander, respectively.

Other officers, who were installed for the coming year, were Thomas E. Brown, officer of the day; Martin Burkhardt, officer of the guard; T. M. Bell, adjutant; Anson H. Smith, quartermaster; W. C. Donnan, chaplain; William Groff and Henry Puder, color guards.

Mrs. Susan Wheaton, 64 Lexington avenue, returned Friday after spending the Christmas holidays with E. S. Wheaton and family at Indianapolis, Ind.

After a two-week vacation spent with his mother, Mrs. A. R. Perl, and sister, Joan, Walter Perl, 18 Penn avenue, left last night for New York, N. Y., where he is a senior at Pratt Institute.

Mrs. I. M. Palmer, 324 West Fourth street, has returned to her home after spending the holidays with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Palmer, at South Bend, Ind.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald W. Barr returned to their home in Altoona, Pa., last night after spending the past week with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Barr, Greenwood avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Wentland, West Fifth street.

Raymond Boyer, student at the University of Idaho, left yesterday for Moscow, Idaho, after spending the holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Boyer, 4 Remy avenue.

Informally Speaking...

Lucy Dear:

Happy New Year! 1939 is well on its way today—already three days old . . . and Mansfielders certainly welcomed it in fine style with dances, toboggan parties, open houses and the like.

THERE were lots of pretty gowns at the University club dance Friday evening. . . I do wish you could have seen Pat Kramer's dress. . . It was black velvet, held over each shoulder with three tiny black straps . . . then a wide belt made from three shades (blue, cerise, and orchid) of velvet ribbon circled her waist and tied in individual bows at the front. . . I'm convinced that Pat missed her calling—because she designed it herself.

Betty Penhorwood was also wearing black at the dance—a full net skirt with a sequin bolero jacket. Betty's mother, Mrs. Barney Ford, created a striking contrast in a dark red velvet gown with a shirred bodice. Betty entertained with an open house Saturday afternoon, too.

There always seemed to be a crowd around the entrance to the ballroom Friday night—perhaps it was because Margaret (Caldwell) Ford was giving carnations to the gentlemen—white to club members, red to the guests . . . and it could have been, too, that there was mistletoe over the doorway. . . You know that's always quite an attraction!

THEY had some very fine decorations at the Our club dance on Saturday evening, too. There was the usual laurel, holly, and pine, but in addition, a large gourd-like container was suspended in the middle of the ballroom. At the stroke of 12, the gourd was opened and a shower of balloons tumbled out for the guests. . . There were also lots of noisemakers and paper hats on hand . . . and a large Christmas tree in the corner was trimmed with brightly colored balloons instead of the usual ornaments. You would have been surprised to see that everyone was on time for the dance—I think it was due to the door prizes.

Ruth Fiedler and Frank Mengert entertained with an unusual type of New Year party Saturday evening. The group went tobogganing and then had a spaghetti supper at Frank's home afterward. . . Kit Sturges had an open house for her friends over the week-end, and Mary Alma Gaar gave a surprise birthday party for her husband, Earl, yesterday evening. . . they started the party with supper at 7 o'clock. . . Dorothea Grimes entertained her sorority sister of Beta Sigma Phi and their dates with an open house before the University club dance Friday evening.

The Arthur L. Glattkes entertained at New York day dinner Sunday, having a dozen guests. One of the guests was LeRoy (Bud) Parmelee, who pitched for the New York Giants when they won the world's series in 1933, and later for the St. Louis Cardinals and the Chicago Cubs. He was with Minneapolis last year, but will be with the Philadelphia Athletics this year (Goodness, I hope I got the names of all those teams right).

THERE were lots of people in and out of town over the week-end, too. Jack Tappan went down to Norfolk, Va., with Louise Brown to visit with her relatives. Jack was graduated from Keayon college last June and he's now enrolled at Western Reserve law school. Louise lives in Berlin Heights . . . she's a graduate of Ohio Wesleyan.

Do you remember Carl Simon, who left here for California two years ago? Carl blew into town New Year eve to surprise his friends, and thrilled them with a lot of colored movies of the west coast's beauty spots. He had been in Peoria on business, and just ran over to Mansfield to say "Hello" to his friends. He left for the coast, via plane from Chicago, yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Wilson started the New Year out right—just like you and I would like to—they left for Florida Sunday with F. W. Helter . . . and will be gone a month.

I HAD a pleasant surprise yesterday afternoon when Janet Wolfe called me . . . you remember Jan, she moved to Sandusky some eight years ago. She told me that the family is now living at Shaska beach the year round . . . except Peggy, who's married and lives down in Tennessee. The Wolfe family was visiting at the Allen Bond home yesterday.

By the way, Janie Bond has returned to Virginia Intermount junior college in Bristol, Va., where she is taking her first year's work. . . she likes the school very much . . . and says that the southern gals are about twice as hospitable as us northerners.

George Martin Biddle is rather uneasy about returning to Cleveland Art school this week . . . because it's this week that his fraternity is having rough initiation for the pledges . . . so hard work, long hours, and hikes in the cold are in the offing for George. . . Paul Cropper, Jr., returned to Wittenberg college yesterday afternoon . . . a little worried at the prospects of finals. Paul is a freshman and pledge of Beta Theta Pi fraternity.

Well, Lucy, now that our two week-end holidays are over, perhaps I can manage to get back on schedule with my correspondence . . . so I'll promise you a letter next Monday . . . and until then . . . Much love.

MARIANNE.

VARIETY OF PARTIES WELCOME NEW YEAR

Our Club Dance, Celebration at Swisher's, Entertaining for Out-of-Town Guests, Tea Dance Events of Week-End.

EVERYTHING from the most rigidly formal attire to informal sports wear dotted the Mansfield scene Saturday night as folks around town sped 1938 on its way, and welcomed the New Year. Among the smartest functions of the season was the Our club New Year eve supper dance at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

Joe Cisco and his Musical Magpies supplied both sweet and hot melodies for the dancers between the hours of 9:30 p. m. and 1:30 a. m. The committee in charge of the affair included Mr. and Mrs. Tom Ford, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Hartman, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hout and Martin Wolf.

There were 171 members and guests of the organization present for the holiday function which was preceded by a private dinner attended by a large group of the members at the hotel. Door prizes were presented at the beginning of the evening to Mrs. George Draffin, Mrs. Carl Stander and Mrs. Victor Smith.

Large Affair.

One of the largest parties in Richland county was the pig roast given by Jim and Toots Swisher at their farm near Clearfork Run. Several hundred persons were present during the evening. At midnight a supper of roast suckling pig with all the trimmings was served to the guests at long candlelit tables arranged in the dining room. During the evening John Grabler played accordion selections for singing and dancing.

Another event of the holiday was the surprise birthday party given last night in honor of Mrs. Michael Miller. The evening was spent in bridge and dancing.

Fete Houseguests.

The houseguests of Miss Norma Prior were fete'd at a party given recently by Miss Prior when she entertained at her home on Mendota street. The guests of honor were the Misses Elizabeth and Anna Stulpin, Elizabeth, Pa. There were 22 present for games and dancing.

Out-of-town 'guests' included Gerald Bush, Shiloh; Bertha and Charles Pofenbaugh, Crestline, and Robert Bush, Chillicothe.

Tea Dance.

Even the younger set of Mansfield entertained for the holidays this year, and prominent among the hosts and hostesses were

Working Girl Should Rejoice

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Rejoice, girls! Throw your hats up to the ceiling (if they're down-right hideous models, I hope they don't come down again). But whatever may be your favorite method of being joyful, show it, show that you live in these blessed United States, where women are women and are permitted to draw pay envelopes.

Leading European dictators, who are giving the world the jitters for fear it may be plunged into war overnight, would do well if they'd stop poking out their chins, prancing, strutting, demanding purges, and call into conference a group of nice old ladies. These women really know human nature.

These Old Ladies would tell the super boys a few facts of life, of which they seem to be totally unaware, in their strutting, posing and otherwise playing at being modern Caesars.

The nice old ladies would tell them that there is no matchmaker on earth like propinquity, or, as the dictionary defines it, "state of being near."

In overwhelming large numbers, young people fall in love when they see enough of each other. Offices, factories, shops, offer better opportunities of falling in love than meeting occasionally at dances or other social functions.

But the dictators of all countries, in firing women from jobs, have completely overlooked this fact. They want mass-marrriages, they want citizens, they want soldiers, and they imagine the best method to increase their countries' population is to keep women at home, instead of letting them go out in the world where they'll have a chance to meet, marry and become wives and mothers, though, heaven grant, that their babies may not grow up to be cannon fodder these dictators are looking for.

Girls who have joined the fault-finders and pout over conditions in this country would do well to consider the facts about giving up their comfortable pay envelopes, staying home to dust the living-room furniture and keeping an anxious eye out for the arrival of a chance husband. But husbands really don't arrive that way.

HOROSCOPE

For Wednesday, January 4.
PROBLEMS and uncertainties beset this day, according to the lunar and mutual aspects. There are sinister and subtle entanglements, as well as situations boldly veiled, and sinister. These may lead to litigation and strife, with disagreeable situations and very doubtful results, unless there be much vigilance and sagacity exerted against fraud, treachery and craftiness. Even friends may fail.

Those whose birthday it is may not find affairs harmonious this year unless they exercise unusual awareness, precaution, keen judgment and shrewd action in tricky, smooth and even fraudulent situations. Resort to law is indicated, but it is a doubtful issue. Both undercover and open treachery menace and demand direct and drastic action, even with alleged friends.

A child born on this day may be active, versatile and possibly too clever for its own good. It may become involved in much trouble, perplexity and difficulty because of its own eccentricities. Early discipline and directions are enjoined.

Potatoes that are to be French fried should stand in cold water at least an hour before cooking.

Marriage Meddlers

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

By ADELE GARRISON

"In the vernacular, Noel, have a heart!" I adjured him. "Mary has just gone through two grueling rehearsals, all the more strenuous because I did not interrupt her at all. She was keyed up to the highest pitch. Look at her! She's as limp as the well-known dish rag is supposed to be. She'll do no more work for hours, if I have anything to say about it."

"Will you kindly inform the assembled multitude who else would dare to utter a yelp on the subject?" Dick glibly, "playing up" manfully. "But I agree with you. Sit down, Niece, before you fall down."

With a startled look Noel turned to his young wife who was leaning listlessly against the door, completely spent with her efforts. He lifted her tenderly in his arms, carried her to the couch and deposited her upon it. Then with masculine clumsiness, he tucked a pillow under her head and gave her a husky command.

"Don't dare to raise your head!" he told her. "Just lie still and rest!"

What She Needs.
"At a boy, Noel!" Dicky applauded. "That's what she needs, a little conjugal authority. What say, Madge? Don't you think we can leave our niece in her husband's care while we go over the details of their get-away from here when they're ready to go?"

"I fancy we may trust her to him," I said, smiling, and started for the door. "I'll want you for a half an hour late this afternoon, Mary, and an hour this evening. And some time during the afternoon and evening, get in a quarter of an hour on your dance practice."

"What's that?" asked Dicky quickly.

"Nothing that you can see now," I told him firmly. "You'll have an opportunity to see it some day later after Noel has had to go back to the farm. She won't be rested enough to give it before you have to leave."

"Seeing that I have to leave in about a half-hour flat, I don't believe she will," Dicky retorted. Then he walked over to Mary's couch, stooped and kissed her cheek, stood erect again and offered her his hand to Noel.

"A revoir," Uncle Dicky," she said. "I'll be seeing you—and thank you."

"For nothing," Dicky retorted with a parting grin at her, "but you're welcome, just the same." On the gibe we went out of the room, our last glimpse of them showing Noel bending over Mary with anxious, adoring solicitude.

"Well! we put that one over," Dicky said complacently when we were safely back in my room again. "Now we'd better tackle that letter to Miss Whitlock which I'm to take down to Thorp and have him mail."

I sat down dutifully at the writing desk, and took out some of the hotel note paper.

"You're not using that, are you?" Dicky gasped. "Remember, this letter is supposed to come from South Jersey. What's eating you, anyway?"

"This note paper is going only as far as the waste basket," I told him, "and there only in tiny bits. I have my own monogrammed note paper in my case, on which I shall copy this letter. But the first draft, for correction, is going on this."

Dicky drew a burling sigh of relief.

"I breathe again," he said. "It did not seem possible that you'd pull a boner like that, but you've been through enough in this business to addle any brains, even the strongest."

Can't Qualify.

He put his hand on his heart and bowed grandiloquently.

"But get busy, pronto, please. I can't hang around here much longer, if I make that trip down to Thorp and get back in time for some things I have to do."

The hesitation in his voice, the sudden gloom in his eyes, brought back the fear which temporarily had been banished by his apparent lightness of mood. The mysterious nimeness which hung over him had not been dissipated, as I thought, and the shadows of the drunken woman who had telephoned me, and her gangster companion, were still looming over him.

I found it a hard task, however, to answer him lightly and with no hint of the swirl of emotion within me. But manage it I did, and I am sure Dicky suspected nothing of my real feeling when I spoke.

"I'll work as fast as I can," I promised, "but you must remember I have no etiquette book nor complete letter writer before me."

"Just take your pen in hand," he glibly with a grin. "Let her know you're well and hope she is the same, and then go on from there."

Finishes Letter.

"I'll do that," I answered, wrinkling my nose at him. Then for a few minutes I wrote steadily while Dicky blew smoke wreaths from his cigar into the air.

When I finally laid down my pen, I read the letter over, made two slight corrections, and then held it out to my husband.

"Will you read it, please, and tell me if you think it will do?" I asked.

"I'm ear-minded, not eye-minded, today," he said. "I know it's all right, but if you're yearning to have me lamp it, read it aloud to me. I promise to listen most carefully."

I took the letter and settled back in my chair.

"Dear Miss Whitlock," I began, but got no further, for the telephone shrilled insistently, and I looked at Dicky in panic. Nobody was supposed to know where we were save Miss Whitlock and she already had given me the news of

Give Neck Good Treatment

By MME. QUI VIVE

Skinny little slims who have hoisted their curls are surprised to find they are all neck. When regarded in the mirror there seems to be a terrible lot of it.

It's not always all that it should be. Has fuzzers on it. Funny down streaking points, maybe. Yes indeed, my hearties, that area has to have a look-see if not a definite cleaning up party to get the hair line right.

As it isn't fair not to consider the neck for as well as after, you might as well take a complete survey and see how yours is standing up.

The best-looking neck has been known to turn sour, take on cross-cross lines. They come from the bad habit of letting the chin drop when sewing or writing or doing whatever you're doing that necessitates the downward glance. When the chin is low, it's easy to drop the shoulders forward, causing relaxation of the musculature of the chest and neck. When muscles have too much time off they get out of form. They soften, lose resiliency. If your neck is going back on you, get a jar of massage cream this very day—write it down on your shopping list—and use it faithfully every night.

After the face and neck washing, have the skin as dry as a bone. Slather your hands with cream, rub the flattened fingers up and down the neck, using both hands at once. Keep going right around. To insure firm jaw contour, rub from chin tip to ear lobes.

While the cream remains on, friction an ice cube over the skin surface. Nothing like refrigeration to harden the tissues.

When you're all chilly and feeling goosefleshy, pull up your chest, hold in your tummy, put your hands on your hips, wig-wag your head. Turn it from side to side with a mean, poisonous pull on the muscles. Just moving does nothing.

trick or so from a squeeze play which develops along the way.

This occurs upon occasion even when there has been no particular striving for such extra tricks, as a natural accompaniment of correct tactics.

Edwin N. Moore, one of the best players of the Union League Club in New York, did a neat job of picking up an unscheduled trick at rubber play of this deal. His partner in the North opened the bidding with a pretty weak not vulnerable 1-Club. Mr. Moore bid 2-No Trump in the South and his partner had to raise it to three.

After West took in the diamond K and A, he put Mr. Moore in with the 4 to the J and Q. The club 10 was finessed, a lead to the heart A was followed by the club Q, finessed, and then the heart K and Q were raked in to make way for a possible squeeze if the suit didn't divide evenly in the defenders' hands.

When it turned out that East held four hearts, there was still a squeeze chance to turn an apparent three no trump, if the clubs didn't break, into a sure four if they did, and again into five-odd if East had to guard the spades as well as the hearts.

So Mr. Moore next led to the club A. Both opponents following suit, he then led the club 7 to the tenth trick. Poor East was done for. He couldn't toss the heart 10 because that would set up dummy's 7. He picked the spade 5 for a discard, so the last three tricks then were the spade A, K and S, making five-odd.

Tomorrow's Problem.

(Dealer: West. North-South vulnerable.)

With the heart 5 led against South's 3-No trump, what should he play from dummy on the first trick if the opponents had done no bidding, and what if East had opened the bidding with a third-hand psychic of 1-Diamond?

A novelty container which will hold several of the handsome vine plants is a clear glass bowl about five inches in diameter. Plants such as the ivy or philodendron will take root in such bowl filled with clear water, and the effect is stunning.

Veal requires longer cooking than beef because it has less fat and more connective tissue. Additional seasonings—such as chopped celery, onions and parsley placed over the top during its baking—improve the flavor. Beef, lamb and pork, however, require only salt and pepper for seasoning.

To Relieve Bad Cough In a Hurry, Mix This at Home

Swift Acting, and Saves Big Money. Easily Mixed.

You'll never know how quickly and easily you can relieve coughs due to colds, until you try this famous recipe. It gives you about four times as much cough medicine for your money, and you'll find it truly wonderful, for real relief.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking needed—it's no trouble at all. Then put 2 1/2 ounces of Elix (obtainable from any druggist) into a pint bottle. Add your syrup and you have a full pint of medicine that will amaze you by its quick action. It never spoils, lasts a family a long time, and tastes fine—children love it.

This simple mixture takes right hold of a cough. For real results, you've never seen anything better. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and quickly eases soreness and difficult breathing.

Elix is a compound containing Norway Pine and palatable guarana, in concentrated form, well-known for its prompt action in coughs and bronchial irritations. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

Daladier Parades French Military Power In Tunisia

'SHOW' SERVES AS ANSWER TO DUCE'S THREAT

French Premier Greeted by Thousands; Confers With Army, Navy Leaders.

(By International News Service)
BIZERTE, Tunisia—Amid scenes of spectacular military pomp, Premier Edouard Daladier of France arrived at the powerful naval base of Bizerte today to stage one of the greatest empire shows in French history as a grim warning against Italian demonstrations for French colonial territory.

Daladier's arrival on his tour of "solidarity"—which Italy already has branded a "provocative gesture"—marked the first visit of any French premier to Tunisia. He immediately plunged into a series of naval and military reviews and ceremonies which will serve stern notice on Fascist Italy that France will fight before yielding territory to Premier Mussolini.

Greeted By Thousands.
The French premier disembarked from the cruiser Foch at 8:20 a. m. At the quayside he was greeted by Arab Muslims and a tumultuous welcome from thousands of Tunisians.

A squad of seaplanes soared overhead in honor of his arrival. Purpose and meaning of Daladier's visit was neatly summed up by one Tunis observer, who stated:

"The population of Tunisia is overwhelmingly in favor of French rule. They know they have a chance to live and prosper under the French."

"But Italian rule would result in an immediate influx of thousands of colonists from Hungary, resulting in competition such as is presently unknown. It also would result in increased taxes and would be the end of democracy."

"But a large section of the population, especially Italians, are uncertain of the result of the recent Italian demonstrations. Remembering Munich, they fear to put themselves on record until the future assumes a more definite shape."

A strong show of French force will effect a tremendous change."

A show of force and solidarity is exactly what Tunis will see during the next three days, from the moment Daladier inspects Bizerte, the most powerful naval base in the eastern Mediterranean, until he reviews 25,000 crack troops in the desert post at Ain Tounine on Thursday in a large military pageant.

Tonight Daladier is scheduled to make an important speech which will be directed as much at Rome, as a "hands off" warning, as to Tunis.

Authorities here said they do not anticipate any unfriendly demonstrations.

Report Windsor Will Visit Queen Denied in London

LONDON—(JNS)—British court circles today flatly denied a report published abroad that the Duke of Windsor would fly to Sandringham alone this month to visit Queen Mother Mary on grounds the condition of her heart is causing "anxiety."

Sir Gerald Chichester, private secretary to Queen Mary, authorized International News Service to publish the following statement regarding the rumor:

"A report that the Queen Mother is suffering from heart trouble is pure fabrication. Queen Mary is perfectly well. Any story to the contrary is disgraceful rubbish."

Authorities at Buckingham palace, questioned regarding the report by International News Service, scoffed at the published story and branded it "incorrect."

Sandringham house officials also denied the report, declaring:

"Queen Mary is not ill. The Duke of Windsor is not flying here."

RESIDENT HERE 3 YEARS, DIES

Mrs. Edith Lautermilch, 58,
Stricken After Brief Illness.

Mrs. Edith Mac Lautermilch, 58, a resident of Mansfield three years, died at her home, 109 Stewart avenue, early Monday after a brief illness. She was born in Tiffin, Sept. 14, 1880, and was a member of the Trinity Reformed Evangelical church of Tiffin and Pythian Sisters.

Surviving are her husband, William E. Lautermilch; three sons, John F., of Cleveland, George W. of Mansfield and Edward A., of Bedford; her mother, Mrs. Ella Hollinger of Tiffin, and a sister, Mrs. Ella Van Camp of Tiffin.

Funeral services will be held at the Pahl funeral home in Tiffin at 2:30 p. m. Wednesday with Rev. F. R. Casselman officiating. Burial will be in Greenlawn cemetery, Tiffin.

Lay Trap In Chicago for Four Mad Felons

Up and Down THE STREET

Confronted with 50 kinds of building bricks, Mansfield school board members were tempted to play "Enie, Meenie, Moe," when they selected the style of brick to go into construction of the Johnny Applesed junior high school the other day. After considering each of the samples, the board picked a buff-colored sandstone brick at an impromptu session at the building site on Cline avenue. More than 234,000 bricks will go into the construction of the walls of the new school.

One of the oldest of New Year gags was worked on a number of victims early Sunday morning, and those who were awakened from slumber were not particularly enthusiastic about it. Calling by telephone at an unholy hour the gagster would say: "Is this 1-9-3-9?" The victim would answer in varying degrees of annoyance that it is not. Then would come a chuckle and the advice to look at the new calendar.

An account of Miss Jenney's rise to fame and a large photograph of her appeared in the Dispatch magazine section, with her life story heading the list of noted Ohio models.

100 FACE NAZI TREASON TRIALS

Death Sentences Loom for 17
as Dredged 'People's Court' Opens Hearings.

(By United Press)
BERLIN—The greatest treason trial since the Nazi accession to power six years ago started today before the dreaded "People's" court.

In all more than 100 persons were involved and of these it was forecast that 17 or 18 at least would be sentenced to death.

The case involves Ernest Niekiisch, a prominent writer of pre-Nazi times, and 21 other principals charged with disseminating propaganda against the regime and with plotting the death of high Nazi leaders.

But in addition, it was estimated that 100 persons linked with the 22 principals would be brought to trial in provincial courts.

The trial will be in two parts. Niekiisch and two others were selected as the first defendants, charged with leadership in the alleged treason plot. Nineteen others are to be tried later. Less serious charges, such as preparing handbills attacking Adolf Hitler, cabinet ministers and other prominent Nazis, are to be considered first. Then the court is to consider charges that Niekiisch and his alleged supporters plotted a reign of terror as part of which they prepared to make attempts on the lives of leading government officials.

Funeral services will be held at the home at 2:30 p. m. Thursday with Rev. Lena Jennings of the Perrysville Presbyterian church officiating. Burial will be in Greenlawn cemetery.

LISTS TAFT'S $159,451 MOST EXPENSIVE SENATE CAMPAIGN

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON—A senate campaign expenditures report today listed higher campaign expenditures for Robert A. Taft, new Republican senator from Ohio, than for any other senatorial candidate.

The committee reported to the new congress that Taft's combined expenditures for his successful primary and general election campaigns were $159,451.

The committee, basing its figures on those shown by the candidates and their committees, reported Taft's expenditures in the primary were $101,852 and for the election, $57,597.

Bulkeley's primary expenditures were given as $21,333 and for the election, $23,738.

Arthur H. Day, Ohio supreme court justice who lost the Republican nomination to Taft, was shown as having primary expenditures of $22,313 and contributions of $21,855. Former Gov. George White, the Democratic runner-up to Bulkeley had $3,749 and $3,810.

The committee reiterated that it found no evidence to support Bulkeley's charges during the primary campaign that Taft's actual expenditures were higher than reported.

Likewise it formally reported it found nothing to sustain charges by Taft and John W. Bricker, the successful Republican candidate for governor, that Democrats were coercing Works Progress Administration workers.

Surviving are his wife, Gladys; a son, Arthur Osler Wilford of Mansfield; a daughter, Jane at home, and two brothers, Harold of Columbus and Ernest of Ivy Depot, Va.

The body will remain at the residence until 10:30 a. m. Thursday when it will be removed to the Geiger funeral home where services will be held at 2 p. m. Rev. Paul Hollingshead of the Central M. E. church will officiate. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

FIFTH CAUGHT, TELLS STORY OF SLAYING PLOT

Insane Fugitives Believed on Way to Chicago, Planning
Series of Murders.

(By International News Service)
CHICAGO — Four murderous maniacs, headed for Chicago to wreak vengeance on their leader's ex-wife and four policemen, were hunted today throughout northern Illinois and Indiana.

The band of crazed convicts broke out of the state hospital for the criminally insane at Lima, O., Sunday morning and eluded police of the three states on their dash west.

From a fifth man in the group who doubled back on the trail, only to be captured in Cleveland, O., police obtained the story of the insane murder plot.

Chicagoan Leads Band.
Leading the would-be killers is Frank Haines, one-time Chicago bandit and gunman who engineered the escape.

According to Russell Nuckles, the recaptured convict, Haines is determined to slay his pretty former wife, Mrs. Margaret Haines, 30, and the four policemen who bailed his criminal career in past years.

He blames Mrs. Haines both for turning him over to the law in 1931 after a robbery for which he served seven years in the Joliet, Ill., penitentiary and for obtaining custody of their son, Donald, 9, when he was in prison.

"Haines talked of nothing on the trip west except killing his wife (Mrs. Haines obtained a divorce last year) and the cops," Cleveland police said they had been told by Nuckles who left his companions in Fort Wayne, Ind.

The information was telegraphed to Chicago and a guard posted at the home of Mrs. Haines and that of her sister. Warnings were likewise relayed to Lieut. Redmond Gibbons and Detectives Louis Olson, Patrick Touhy and Albert Glass.

Nuckles said the four had been armed with knives and hatchets when he left them, but they planned to steal guns.

The others besides Haines who escaped are Marion Pierce, Indianapolis, colored, sentenced for a shooting; William Brucks, a convicted murderer of Highland county, O.; and William Blatz, a robber from Maine.

German Christmas Fire
An Awesome Sight, and Difficult to Understand

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—The fascination of fire on a hilltop with which some of the Germans celebrated Christmas this year is not a total mystery, although it is hard to realize that the mere sight of flame against the snow and pines aroused religious feeling in people who make such angry boasts of their intelligence and civilization.

Fire were great events in a little town where I once lived, and the people always were churning in a way easier to understand than to confess.

Fires provided excitement to relieve the monotony, but that wasn't all. The fire bell was a big church bell on a high windmill frame with a loose clapper worked by two ropes, and when it rang a strange stir ran through the blood. People would stop dead for an instant and then start on the run for the town hall, which contained the fire wagon and the dog pound or, if the fire was visible in the sky, would streak off that way. It was a distinction to ring the fire bell and men and boys would race to be first to the ropes.

The first ones on the scene would throw furniture out the windows until the fire got too hot, and the men coming up with the engine would drop the sucker into the cistern, pond or lake and pump for a while. Others would form bucket lines and fling little spits of water until those in front were compelled to fall back with a sense of having done their best and give themselves over to the joy of watching the flames eat the walls of a neighbor's home.

They never did put out a fire, and every building that ever caught fire burned to ash. They would squabble and punch one another around for the important and dramatic duty of holding the nozzle, which gave only a little squirt of water at best and sometimes would die off entirely as the men on the pump handles got tired and wrangled over whose turn it was to pump a spell.

But the entire population of the village would stand in a circle around the doomed premises to watch. Even in the dead of night mothers and children would turn out, winter or summer, to give themselves over to the enjoyment of a fire, and one winter night when a summer hotel burned, 12 miles down the lake, our fire engine went clanging down there over the ice, hitched behind the express wagon, with cutters and farm bobs racing before and behind and people stumbling along on foot toward the beautiful glare in the sky. It was too long a haul for the foot passengers, and they would give up after one, two or three miles, realizing sadly that they could not make it in time to see anything but charred and smoking ruins.

The desire to be helpful, to rescue possessions, could not have been very important in the crowd emotions at our fires. They lingered on and on, excited, fascinated and chattering long after everyone had been driven back from the burning house, and the boys and men would throw stones through the windows to hear the crash and see the flames rush out. A falling ridge pole or wall and the shower of sparks would bring cheers.

Tornadoes were different. When the greasy green dusk gathered and the air lay dead at the approach of a big wind the people had a sense of individual danger and were oppressed until the blow passed on. The tornadoes always passed us by, but other little towns were ripped to splinters and people were killed, and everyone knew that they whipped around erratically and might strike anywhere. Tornadoes weren't safe or beautiful, but fires, particularly at night, and more so in winter with the snow for a background, were personally harmless and events of great spiritual delight.

I saw and felt the fascination of a German fire-show on a snowy mountain the night they closed their terribly ironic winter Olympic spectacle at Garmisch.

Faul Gallieo and I had started down the slopes to town to write our pieces and had gone a mile or so when the mountain erupted into flame and sound. It had been announced as fireworks, and we thought we might safely skip that to save time, but after a backward glance we stopped and stood there—but with queer sensations as the lights arched into the sky, higher and higher, more and more gorgeous, tinting the snow, and the faint, distant, hysterical "Hells" of thousands of Germans tinkled against the solemn boom of artillery concealed in the folds of the hills.

Unbelievers though we were, we felt the pull of it and sensed the power of the spectacle of the Hitler-true Germans standing with the fuehrer in their very midst, shrieking and weeping for joy as the mountain blazed and artillery stirred their ancient instinct to burn, crush and conquer.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—It's high time credit were assigned for the current popularity of parenthood in Hollywood, which used to hide its babies behind sheafs of press clippings.

And if no other claimant arises, you can thank Bryant Washburn for the fact that babies, in Hollywood, are not only acknowledged by movie stars but boasted about.

Washburn is a bit-player now, and you can find him on the set of Claudette Colbert's "Midnight." But in 1916, with the old Essanay company in Chicago, Washburn was a romantic heartbeater on a plane with Francis X. Bushman.

In those days it was a stellar credo that babies were to be neither seen nor heard by the star's public. "Professional suicide," and publicized parenthood or marriage, were synonymous terms. Bushman, Washburn and other screen celebrities were married and had children—but for the public they were pictured as potential Romeos for every screen-struck gal.

"One day I got sick of this secrecy," recalls Washburn, "and I took my year-old baby boy out for a stroll in my buggy down Sheridan road. That one stroll was practically a news sensation—and the reaction, to everybody's surprise, was most favorable. My fans didn't drop me cold, in fact they liked my attitude."

And since then—well, Bing Crosby is a top favorite and has four sons. Marlene Dietrich's rise was not impeded by her daughter, Norma Shearer's children didn't keep her down, and many married stars who haven't children of their own have gone out and adopted one or more. Often the unmarried—like Loretta Young—will adopt a child when possible.

Babies are "in" in Hollywood—and "in" to stay.

Washburn, incidentally, looking trim and, except for slight grayness of hair, substantially like the romantic star of yesterday, is undiscovered by his fall from fame.

"This business is like a big roulette wheel," he chuckled. "You never can tell when your number will come up—and I'm confident that mine will be called some day again."

After 34 years as "gentleman's gentleman" to George Arliss, Jenner is back in Hollywood—on his own.

Jenner's meticulous attentions to his master made Hollywood legend—and Bette Davis tells a story that is typical of his jealous devotion.

Bette, who owes her Warner contract to Arliss' selection of her for "The Man Who Played God," was sitting on a set-chair during that production—and she hadn't noticed that the chair was marked with Arliss' name.

Suddenly she heard a warning voice behind her. "There's going to be some 'ot soup down your neck in one moment, Miss, if you don't move!"

Leaping up in quick-time, Bette saw Jenner, an ominous glint in his eye, standing there. When the master's chair was vacated, the glint disappeared and he was all smiles.

Jenner, incidentally, may get a regular job at Warner's—as a character actor.
